Trial.'WEAK INTELLIGENCE'
IN THE JURY BOXUrges More Latitude for Judges to Keep Inexperienced Jurors From Being Misled by Lawyers.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, Nov. 3.—Chief Justice Taft today criticized judicial procedure which allowed men of "weak intelligence" and "little experience" to be jurors.Speaking before the general crime conference, he closed his address with these notable words, which the audience took as a direct criticism of the conduct of the all conspiracy trials, which have been in the courts for three years:
"There will have to be a further examination of the way by which jurors are selected. The method of selection ought not to be such that counsel for the defendants, out by exclusion of worthy citizens from the panel, secure jurors of weak intelligence, of little experience, and subject to emotions easily aroused."The contention with oil cases was further emphasized by the presence of Justice Suddens, who released yesterday the evidence in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial, arising from the illegal leasing of Teapot Dome naval oil reservation.

For Power New Trials.

"We need legislation that shall render impossible new trials except for real injustice in a trial," Taft declared. "We need legislation to enlarge the power of the judges to guide the trial and to help the jury in understanding the evidence and in reaching its conclusions upon the evidence. This means that the law should not prevent the charge of the Court from being enlightening and clarifying."
It should obviate the camouflage that is so often created in a courtroom by the skill and historical ability of the counsel. We must trust somebody in the supervision of the trial and that somebody must be and should be the judge.The procedure and rules of evidence should not be such that the lawyers can weave a web to trap the jury, which an unexpe-rienced juror, by reason of technical rules, would have to set aside.
Neither the English judges, nor the judges of the Federal Court are restricted to the aid which they can give the jury, to enable it to understand the real issues and to weigh evidence intelligently. But judges are more restricted in other countries.

How Justice Is Defeated.

The truth is that the American people in many states have distrusted the judges and preferred to let the jurists wander about through a wilderness of evidence without judicial suggestion or guide, and often to become subject to an unfair and perverted presentation by counsel of the evidence leading to a defeat of justice.The chance of conviction of innocent persons by a jury of 12 men by judicial tyranny must be minimized by fair review on appeal.
But the danger is not sufficiently great to require that the reins should be thrown on the back of the jurors to follow their own sweet will in their conclusions. They constitute the tribunal to pass on the facts and they are the ultimate judge of the facts. But the judge is there and it should be his duty with his experience to assist the jury to consider and analyze the evidence and weigh it with common sense."

Wants Exemptions Limited.

Taft declared that one cure for the too-emotional jury would be to cut down the exemptions from service.The reform, he continued, "is not easy, but I am very confident that the people aroused, as they are on this subject, and with their energy, attention and criticism much progress can be made."
The Chief Justice placed the responsibility for reform squarely on the State Legislatures and Congress. He said Americans were an easy-going people who suffered complacently until thoroughly aroused, then demanded radical reform.
The country at large is now ripe for such reform," he declared.FAIR TONIGHT, TOMORROW;

HUNDREDS FLEE FROM FLOOD

Vermont Dam Partly Gives Way
After Heavy Rain.RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 3.—Hundreds of persons fled from their homes this afternoon when the Fraton Dam, near East Creek, partially gave way under the head of water piled up by an all-day downpour.
The creek rose 20 feet as it boiled down through a residential section of this city.A side channel gave way first, providing an outlet for the water,
while the main part of the dam held back the flood. No lives were endangered, so far as could be learned, although scores of homes were said to be flooded.

Grand Jury Inquiry.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Attorneys Joseph McGlynn of East St. Louis and Joseph McGinnis of Alton today were excoriated by reference in the United States District Court of Appeals here, when an affidavit, alleging they had bribed a convict to renege testimony which convicted seven postoffice robbers, was presented to Appellate Justices Page, Evans and Anderson.The Court commented, in reference to the bribery charges against McGlynn and McGinnis: "Any attorney who would go to a penitentiary after a man has been duly convicted and obtain from him, without the presence of the Prosecuting Attorney, a reputation of his testimony before a court, is unfit to practice law in any state." Justice Page added, "The disclosures in these affidavits are a matter for a grand jury to look into."

Convict Charges Bribery.

The charges against McGlynn and McGinnis were presented in counter-affidavits by United States District Attorney Walter Provine of Springfield, Ill., after the lawyers, as counsel for the men convicted in the postoffice robbery, had presented an affidavit made by George Sturm, a convict in Joliet Penitentiary. Sturm had been the star witness against the postoffice robbers, admitting he took part in the robbery and testifying against his confederates.McGlynn and McGinnis, in their motion for a new trial for the postoffice robbery, filed with the United States District Court an affidavit signed by Sturm in which he made a sweeping repudiation of all his testimony at the trial.As a counter-affidavit the Government presented another sworn statement from Sturm in which he said he had been bribed to repudiate his testimony.Sturm's second affidavit described a visit made him by Mc-Glynn and McGinnis. He asserted the affidavit repudiating his testimony had been prepared in advance by the lawyers. He signed it, he swore, because Attorney Mc-Glynn promised him "to have him out of prison within a month and to get the postoffice robbery defendants were granted a new trial."He said that McGlynn took him into a washroom at the penitentiary and showed him where a $100 bill was concealed. Sturm said McGlynn promised him $2500 more when the affidavit was signed.The convict is serving 10 years for stealing an automobile. He was not prosecuted in the Government case.When the charges contained in Sturm's affidavits were placed before the Court this afternoon, the Court made its statement criticizing the action of McGlynn and McGinnis in going to Joliet without notifying the Government Prosecutor, and took the motion for a new trial under advisement.State's Attorney Provine, who, with McGlynn and McGinnis, was present in court, said afterwards he would probably move for a grand jury investigation of the lawyers' activities. Besides McGlynn and McGinnis, attorneys Harold Bundy of Granite City and B. J.
Mudge of Edwardsville represented the postoffice robbery defendants.
Their names were not involved in the Court's comments.The other two affidavits were signed by Oscar L. Collard, detective-sergeant of St. Louis, and Paul B. Cousley, Postmaster of Alton. Both renege the same matter. The affidavits were filed to offset an appeal being made by the convicted men.

Kinnoull, whose earldom is a creation of King James I. and whose family was famous three centuries before King James was born, has announced in the morning newspapers that he is going to marry Miss May Merrick.Only yesterday the young Earl, who is 25 years old, was divorced by the wealthy Countess of Kin-noull, the London newspaper printing for the occasion some of the details of his colorful past. Five years ago his mother, Viscountess Dunpin, prevented his marriage to a fascinating widow much older than he by sending him off to South Africa.The following year he married Miss Enid Fellows, member of a tobacco magnate's family, who shortly after left her last year she inherited $50,000, a sum that would have settled the financial troubles of the Earl's dwindling estates had they not been divorced.
But what most of the Londoners about all day was not the usual story of an aristocrat in love with a "nobody." It was about the triumph of the "nobody's" mother,
"The Queen of the Night Clubs."London's Most Remarkable Woman
Mrs. Kate Merrick—"Mother" Merrick, as she is known—had demonstrated again that she deserves the somewhat unflattering title of "the most remarkable woman in London."Only 18 months ago her elder daughter, Dolly, was married to a member of the British peerage, Lord de Clifford.In the Silver Slipper, her newest club, just off Regent street, Mrs.
Merrick last night received congratulations from the queer mixture of nobility, parvenus and members of the higher underworld that nightly crowd her clubs.When Mrs. Merrick, a motherly, sentimental, ever-smiling soul, was left a widow at the outset of the war, she had a son and two daughters to support, she decided the future in one way or another would have to bring two things.
She wished money with which to educate her children; and when the daughters became marriageable she wished titled men to marry them.Whether true love was a requisite of Mrs. Merrick's second wish has been reported in the crowd that witnessed the beginnings of the courtships of both daughters are sure that it was mutual love in both cases.

Both Well Educated.

Both daughters are well educated. They attended Girton College, Oxford, under assumed names and they were taken to the galleries and show places on the continent by well paid and well-mannered chaperones. It is a fact they did not appear in their mother's night clubs until they had been graduated from college.They were introduced to society behind the footlights of "The Forty Three Club." Proudly Mrs. Merrick once said: "My daughters have danced with Princes, Dukes and Cabinet Ministers." That was at the club. When Dolly met Lord de Clifford she was running a club of her own under her mother's tutelage, the Manhattan, which was more sumptuous, though smaller, than any of the other clubs.Mrs. Merrick apparently became imbued with her high ambitions only after the death of her husband, a Dublin physician and psychologist, brought her face to face with the simple but imposing problem of supporting her children.For 20 years she and her husband struggled along. He sacrificed everything to the idea that a man should be able to run the benefit of neurotics with nothing but a psychoanalyst to care for them.An advertisement in a London newspaper during the first months of the war is responsible. Mrs.
Merrick has said, for her choice of the method of making money.
It told, of a cabaret for "rent
as many young Indians."FALL'S COUNSEL GOES BEFORE GRAND

Chaliapin stated she had no ob-of the parties, the Court formally granted the decree. Irene, daugh-

Comprehension of Mean-

Thought Everhart GuiltyBy PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—What did the jurors think of the Government's case against Albert Fall and Harry Sinclair, as it stood when charges of jury tampering put a premature end to the trial?
A majority of them felt that the prosecution made out a strong case of conspiracy. This was accrued by interviewing them after their discharge yesterday.Of course, the trial ended at an early stage.The prosecution had not quite finished its evidence, and the defense had not begun to present its own. Naturally, the jurors professed still to have open minds.
They wanted to hear the other side, to listen to the arguments, and to receive the judge's instructions on the law.The Government's Case.
Nevertheless, they had heard enough to make them feel that certain parts of the Government's evidence must either be refuted or satisfactorily explained by the defense before a verdict of acquittal could be rendered. They felt that the Government had made out a good case, and that it was up to the defense to show what holes if any, were in.Considering the involved nature of the case, and the fact that virtually all of the jurors were totally unfamiliar with it when they entered the box some of them displayed a surprising degree of understanding. Their success in following tortuous trails of evidence their ability to comprehend some of the finer points, and their appreciation of the significance of certain testimony, certainly would have surprised and gratified the prosecutors had they been aware of it.Everhart's Refusal to Testify.
One fact, however, would have surprised nobody. That was the fact that a majority of the jurors were most deeply impressed by the refusal of Fall's son-in-law, M. T.
Everhart, to testify, on the ground that his answers might incriminate him. Without exception, the jurors to whom the writer talked agreed upon this as the most sinister and damaging fact against the defendants. They could draw but one inference from it.The jurors differed widely, however, in the significance which they attached to other features of the evidence. Conrad J. Herzog, an automobile sales manager, and the man who undoubtedly would have been chosen foreman of the jury, attributed great importance to the secretary which had surrounded many of the important transactions described.Fall's Secrecy Damaging.
The secrecy with which Fall arrived at his decision to lease Teapot Dome to Sinclair, the secrecy in which the negotiations were carried on, the secrecy in which the lease was signed, the efforts to keep the signing a secret, the mysterious transactions of the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., from which $240,500 in Liberty bonds was traced to Fall and Everhart—all this sealed and furnished evidence to the jurors that Fall and Sinclair were guilty.As a business man accustomed to business methods, he found it difficult to believe that this elaborate concealment could have cloaked transactions that were perfectly respectable.Juror Glascock, a plumbing clerk; Juror Kern, a bakery supervisor; Juror Goucher, a fire shop owner, all agreed that the case was one of the most important of the year and later took up farming.

JUROR IN OIL CASE

MRS. ANNELLA BAILEY.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Ramifications of charges of efforts to tamper with the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury spread today with increasing rapidity. New paths into which the inquiry led caused court officials to defer until tomorrow sending the dismissed members of the trial jury before the grand jurors, but District Attorney Peyton Gordon and some of his assistants conferred with 11 of the jurors for more than an hour.A surprise witness before the grand jury was Mark B. Thompson of New Mexico, one of counsel for Albert B. Fall, who was a codefendant with Harry F. Sinclair in the case which ended the trial yesterday when Justice Siddons cleared the jury box. Thompson said he had not been summoned. He was taken into the jury room by Neil Burkinshaw, Assistant District Attorney directing the investigation.Fall, who leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Sinclair, the act which brought the indictment of the two, in a statement issued on his own behalf yesterday, had denied any knowledge of the activities of Burns detectives which the Government charges made efforts to obtain contact with the jurors for Sinclair.Upon leaving the grand jury room, Thompson said he had been questioned about a telephone call which he made one evening during the trial to Daniel Jackson, an Assistant United States Attorney-General. He said he and Jackson had been friends for many years, but he could not disclose what he had told the grand jury. Jackson was not called but said at his office that the telephone conversation had nothing to do with the oil case.Day Again in Grand Jury Room.
A Mason Day, vice president of the Sinclair Exploration Co., to whom the Government charges the defendants shadowing the jury made his reports at the home of Donald Woodward, wealthy Washington merchant, was taken before the grand jury again today. He remained but a few minutes, being excused until the afternoon session. It was stated at the District Attorney's office that he probably would be taken before one of the trial juries and there asked the same questions which he had refused to answer before the grand jury. In the usual course of court procedure, this would be preliminary to the hearing of him before a United States commission, where a formal complaint would be lodged. It was said that Day was prepared to furnish bond in that event. Day refused to answer questions before the grand jury yesterday on the ground that his testimony might tend to incriminate him.

today was paying the way for con-

these rates will be authorized, ex-

The witness list for the day was mittee on tax reduction.

Real Estate Tax Testimony.
Today's meeting of the committee opened with Nathan W. Mac-Chesney, representing the National Association of Real Estate Boards, concluding testimony on real estate taxes begun yesterday.

MacChesney said his organization felt its members were being discriminated against in being taxed on the basis of all profits received in sale of real estate on the installment plan before payment had been completed. He asked that this be corrected.

He also advocated placing 50 per cent as a down payment on real estate sales as the figure allowed before such a sale is taken out of the installment sales class of taxation, instead of the present 25 per cent down-payment.

The Treasury in presenting its recommendation of the prospective total reduction should be held to $225,000,000 advocated a slice in rates applying to incomes between $14,000 and $50,000.

No Reduction Likely.

was announced the administration did not favor a slash on normal income rates or any further increase of personal exemption. In-

Federal Prosecutors Who Raided Rooms of Jury-Shadowing Detectives

FALL'S COUNSEL GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY; KIDWELL TESTIFIES

He was employed by Day to follow the wealthy oil operator about Washington during the trial and that Day paid him $371 in cash last night for his services.

C. G. Ruddy, chief of the Burns operatives assigned to watch the jury, and others of the Burns detectives were on hand by invitation of the District Attorney's office. Some of them already have been examined by the grand jury.

Kidwell Heard Again.
Edward J. Kidwell, slender, shock-haired, juror No. 11, also went again before the inquisitorial grand jury.

He was asked to testify as to whether he had been employed by Day to follow the wealthy oil operator about Washington during the trial and that Day paid him $371 in cash last night for his services.

In keeping their "feet on the ground," complaints about the difficulty in following the jurors were predicated on the fact that so many of them had automobiles and so frequently eluded the detectives in traffic jams downtown.

Expenses Were Heavy.
Writing to Burns again on Oct. 29, Ruddy said that of course "expenses have been high. You will see that car hire has been the big item."

"Taxicabs were not used after the first few days for surveillance," he added, "as they are too easily spotted."

There were long reports about Kidwell and also on an investigation as to the ownership of a home in which John P. Kern, a juror, lived.

All of these reports—and they cover many pages—have been presented to the grand jury.

Assistant United States District Attorney Burkishaw already has received a number of leads which require investigation in various Eastern cities.

Kidwell was described in detective reports as a "wild young man who had settled down some."

HENDRIK VAN LOON EXPLAINS
Only Landlords Keep Him and Bride in Separate Homes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Hendrik van Loon, writer and historian, who secretly married Frances Goodrich, actress, in Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 10, explained yesterday that neither he nor his wife's landlord will permit either of them to break their leases on quarters plenty big enough for one, but exceedingly cramped for two, so that is why they are living apart.

"Miss Goodrich and I have no social message for the coming year," he said. "Neither of us is rich enough to give up our leases and hire a nice little bungalow on top of a skyscraper. So for the moment, we are staying where we are both of us, staying where we were and where we are."

JUDGE'S ASSAILANT SENTENCED
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 3.—A seven-year sentence was passed yesterday on Mrs. Eliza Simmons, who on Sept. 30 shot and wounded United States Federal Judge T. M. Johnson when the jurist was occupying the bench.

Charged with attempted murder, Mrs. Simmons pleaded insanity. She had lost a damage suit in Judge Johnson's court. The judge is recovering.

The Burns detectives assigned to shadow the jurors complained to their superiors about both their difficulty to keep the feet of the "interested parties" on the ground and to trail the individual men and women of the jury.

Writing to W. Sherman Burns of the Burns agency at New York, C. G. Ruddy, in charge of the shadow squad, said all the "interested parties" were under "an abnormal mental strain," but that he had succeeded up to that time, Oct. 26, manager; Juror Grenfell, an electric cable splicer, and Juror Holmes, a department store executive, all gave varying degrees of assent to the impressions described by Horsey.

Strong Case Against Fall and Sinclair, Say Jurors

Looked Bad for Defendants.
They agreed that on the face of the ex-parte showing made up to the explosion that wrecked the trial, it looked bad for the defendants.

However, perhaps the clearest and most detailed description of the evidence was given by Juror No. 1, Mrs. Annella Bailey, one of the two women on the jury and, as her observations disclosed, one of the most intelligent and attentive of the 12.

Mrs. Bailey is a sturdy, jolly good-looking woman of 35, with dark eyes and hair, and a firm jaw and chin.

She is employed in the office of a piano store, and formerly worked in a bank. An interesting fact, which none of the attorneys discovered when they examined her for jury service, is that she formerly lived in Wyoming, near Teapot Dome, and is thoroughly familiar with oil production, although not with the facts in this case.

"I was never so humiliated in my life," she said, "as when they began questioning me, and I had to stand up there and admit that I had never read anything about it."

"It is really a fact that the Supreme Court passed on a case exactly like this one, except that it was a civil suit, and found that a conspiracy did exist?"

"I heard it today," she continued, "and I would not have looked like a fine lot of dumbbells if we had come out of there and given a verdict just the opposite of the Supreme Court's."

"I can't help thinking how foolish I'd have felt."

Thought Littleton Cute.
"How did you like the lawyers?" she was asked.

"I think Mr. Littleton is too cute for words," she answered. "He looks more like a Teddy bear than any man I ever saw."

(Martin W. Littleton, chief of defense counsel, noted attorney and former member of Congress, is, in fact, a very hard blow to the prosecution, for it destroyed the best hope of showing that Sinclair probably was one of the real winners of the Continental. There have been considerable speculations among the attorneys as to whether the jury had realized the significance of the point. Mrs. Bailey settled it.)

Linked Sinclair With Dummy Firm
"Of course," she laughed, "there wasn't the slightest doubt in my mind. Nor do I think, in the minds of the rest, that the name in the first contract was Sinclair's. It was as plain as day, and Mr. Littleton said it plainly by fighting so hard to keep it away from us. I never had any other idea than that Sinclair was in the Continental."

That revelation probably will be a shock to certain people.

The very heart of Sinclair's defense consisted of the contention that he was not in the Continental, but merely purchased oil from it. If he was in the Continental, the trail of corruption was complete, because the bonds were traced directly from the Continental to Fall's bank account.

"And there was another thing," remarked Mrs. Bailey. "I noticed that whenever witnesses told of buying the bonds and placing the money in Fall's account, his lawyer would ask them on cross-examination if Fall was present when the deposit was made. Say, that made me laugh. I worked in a bank for seven years, and I know that a man doesn't have to be present to know when deposits are being made to his account."

"And who did those Liberty bonds come from? Liberty bonds don't come out of the air. Everhart could have told, but he refused, on the ground that he didn't."

was actuated partly by a desire to break the monopoly held in the Salt Creek field by the Midwest. As a matter of fact, the relations between Sinclair and Midwest were shown during the trial to be very cordial.

"I may have got the dates mixed," Mrs. Bailey went on, "but if I remembered them correctly, Fall invited one man to bid on this lease about 10 days after he had leased the reserve to Sinclair. Is that true?"

It was.

"Then there was another thing that impressed me. That was when the defense kept Senator Thomas from giving the names of the men in the original draft of the Continental contract. Mr. Littleton said it was a small matter, but from the time he took to argue it, I decided it must be a very important matter."

Again the lady was right. When A. E. Humphrey was invited to New York to sell $3,000,000 barrels of oil that he possessed, he was met in a conference by Sinclair, H. M. Blackmer of the Midwest, James E. O'Neill of the Prairie, and Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil Indians. He was accompanied by his attorney, former Senator Thomas of Colorado. A tentative contract of sale was drawn before Humphreys and Thomas learned that the purchaser was not as they had supposed, but was Sinclair.

These oilmen, but the new Continental Trading Co., which, the prosecution contended, was nothing but a dummy company secretly owned by them.

In evidence of that, the prosecution asked Thomas to give the names of the purchasers named in the first draft of the contract. The defense objected strenuously, and the names with the exclusion of the names it was a very hard blow to the prosecution, for it destroyed the best hope of showing that Sinclair probably was one of the real winners of the Continental. JURY TAMPERING LAWS OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA AND PENALTIES PROVIDED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The District of Columbia has two statutes dealing with jury tampering. One applies to individual attempts to obstruct justice, and provides a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and one year in prison. The other deals with conspiracies in which two or more persons conspire to obstruct justice, and provides a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and six years in prison.

The first statute follows: "Whoever corruptly or by threats or force, or by any communication, shall endeavor to influence, intimidate or impede any witness or any juror, or who corruptly or by threats or force, shall endeavor to obstruct or impede the due administration of justice, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

The other statute reads: "If two or more persons conspire to influence the verdict of a jury or jurors in a criminal case, they shall each of them be fined not more than $5000 and imprisoned not more than six years, or both."

"What about Sinclair?" "I didn't care much for him. He just looked like a typical vice man. I think I'd have picked him out for one if I had seen him on the street."

That's what the gorgeous Harry's yellow and blue silk shirts did for him.

Steamer in Irish Trade Missing.
LIMERICK, Ireland, Nov. 3.—The small steamer Loop Head, which left South Wales for here Oct. 27, was listed today as unreported. It was thought that the boat, which carried a crew of 12, had foundered in the gale which swept the coast last week.

Germany to Retain Death Penalty.
BERLIN, Nov. 3.—The Reichstag Committee which has under discussion the new penal code, has rejected the Social Democratic motion to abolish the death penalty. The vote was 17 to 11.

Grand Jury Again Hears Duff.
By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 3.—John L. Duff, who resigned as Mayor of Indianapolis last Tuesday, was before the Marion County grand jury again today for the third time this week. The grand jury is thought to be continuing its probe of activities of the City of Indianapolis, which was the subject of a majority faction, in connection with its investigation of political corruption charges.

The woman was questioned at the home of her parents, where she was telegraphed. Her parents said their son was dead, prior to their visit to Tate's mortuary to see the clothing. She answered that newspaper descriptions of the body did not resemble her. She said that she had been with her son until two weeks ago last Tuesday, when they quarreled on a return from a trip to Alto. She confessed not to know what business he was engaged in, except that he seemed to have plenty of money.

He told her he was connected with the Weston dog track in St. Louis County. The track's management denied he was an employee. The woman departed last night for her home town, Panama, Ill.

Probably Slain in Auto.
Authorities have a theory that the body of a man found shot dead in Alto, a week before the body was found, was not identified. Investigators think there may be a connection between the two killings.

SMITH STRONGEST DEMOCRAT
IN SOUTH, SAYS LOUISIANIAN
Congressman Aswell Declares "Paid Lobbyists" Ruled St. Louis Farm Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Gov. Smith of New York leads all other Democrats in the race for the presidential nomination in the South. Representative Aswell of Louisiana said today after a call upon President Coolidge, "I was merely reporting sentiment and was not declaring myself necessarily in favor of Gov. Smith's nomination."

Aswell, who is the ranking Democrat on the House Agricultural Committee, declared that he felt the farm relief fight in the next Congress would be waged along substantially the same lines as it was last year. He considered, however, that in the next Congress the administration would be able to muster enough strength to put over the Curtis-Crisp bill, which in many details is similar to the Johnson bill, and which would be a revolving fund with which to make loans to farmers and strengthen cooperative marketing associations.

The St. Louis conference, which Aswell reaffirmed its faith in, was the McNary-Bragg bill, was defeated by the Louisiana to have been made up largely of "paid lobbyists of agricultural organizations."

$75,000 in Loot Recovered.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Loot valued at $75,000 stolen from the Miami (Fla.) home of David Joyce, millionaire Chicago lumberman, was recovered when police arrested three men in a raid here. The loot included paintings and other furnishings stolen last Oct. 5 from Joyce's home. David Joyce is in business with his brother, J. Stanley Joyce, former husband of Mrs. Hopkins Joyce.

LOST BOY FOUND DEAD IN DARTMOOR SEARCH
Body of Lad Discovered River Bank Near Home in England.

By the Associated Press.
IVYBRIDGE, England, Nov. 3.—With 200 mounted horsemen searching the remote reaches of Dartmoor for him today, 17-year-old Willie Thompson, who has been lost since Tuesday, lay dead on the river bank near Red Lake close to his home.

The body was found this afternoon by a party of day workers near the spot where he was reported to have been drowned while attempting to cross the river in an effort to escape from the tangle of the moorlands.

SLAIN MAN'S KEY FITS LOCK IN DOOR; IT IDENTIFIES HIM

Turns Bolt Where Charles Harley, Bootlegger, Lived With Woman as Mr. and Mrs. Burke.

and Then Thrown Into Horseshoe Lake.

Fitting of a key in the door of a rooming house yesterday completed a circumstantial identification of the body of a man found murdered at Horseshoe Lake, Madison County, a week ago today, as that of Charles Harley, sometimes known as Robert Burke, 29 years old, a bootlegger.

The body, unidentified by anyone, was buried Saturday in a potter's field at Granite City. Tuesday night Theresa Marks of East St. Louis appeared before Deputy Coroner Tate at Granite City and said she was convinced from newspaper descriptions of the body that it was Harley's.

She identified the clothing and a key buckle labeled "B." which had been on the body. She said a key found in the man's pocket was a rooming house at 3204 Colmar avenue, where she and Harley had lived as "Mr. and Mrs. Burke."

Key Fits Lock in Door.
Deputy Coroner Tate went to the Collinsville avenue room, inserted the key in the lock and turned the door. He said then that he was satisfied with the circumstantial evidence that the body was Harley's, and that he would not exhume the remains from the potter's field unless requested to do so by Harley's parents, who live at Suffolk, Va.

The woman was questioned at police headquarters as to why she had telegraphed Harley's parents that their son was dead, prior to her visit to Tate's mortuary to see the clothing. She answered that newspaper descriptions of the body had convinced her it was Harley's. She added that Harley was a bootlegger when she met him at her apartment in Kansas City two months ago. They moved a month ago to East St. Louis and lived together until two weeks ago last Sunday, when they were killed on their return from a trip to Alton. She refused not to know what business he engaged in, except that he seemed to have plenty of money.

Congressman Aswell Declares "Paid Lobbyists" Ruled St. Louis Farm Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Gov. Wood of New York leads all other Democrats in the race for the presidential nomination in the South, Representative Aswell of Louisiana said today after a call upon President Coolidge. Aswell made it plain that he was merely reporting sentiment and was not declaring himself necessarily in favor of Wood, Smith's nomination.

Aswell, who is the ranking Democrat on the House Agricultural Committee, declared that he felt the farm relief fight in the next Congress would be waged along substantially the same lines as it was last year. New Army Plane Shoots From Wing

A NEW U. S. Army fighting biplane, mounted with six machine guns, capable of firing 5000 rounds without reloading and carrying 12 30-pound bombs, was tested at Mitchell Field, L. I., recently. A feature of the plane is the placing of two of the machine guns in the wings near the tips. The fire from these guns converges, and by flying along a trench it is said that an entire sector could be wiped out. Photo shows Lieut. E. P. Gaines showing one of the machine guns, which operate automatically, in the wing of the plane.

BARGE LINE TRAFFIC MANAGER DISCHARGED

Theodore Brent Summarily
Dismissed by Gen. Ashburn
Under Official Sanction.

Theodore Brent of New Orleans, traffic manager of the Inland Waterways Corporation, the Federal government's barge line operation on the Mississippi River, was summarily discharged today by Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, executive chairman of the board, "under authority of the Secretary of War."

No specific reasons are given except that Ashburn, in a letter to Brent, stated: "Recent developments have convinced me that your future usefulness to the Inland Waterways Corporation has ceased."

J. P. Higgins of St. Louis, operating manager of the lower Mississippi River operation, was named acting traffic manager and departed for New Orleans at once to take over the office, which is second to that of Gen. Ashburn. The salary is $12,000 a year.

Brent has been with the Government's experiment for the revival of shipping upon the Mississippi since its inception in 1917. At no time has he been popular with shippers and several times within the last two years it is known that Gen. Ashburn has contemplated his discharge. Early in the operation two general managers in succession resigned from the line because of inability to get along with Brent.

Ashburn's letter terminated Brent's connection with the line in any capacity and stated that he would be allowed his salary for November.

KLAN AND ANTIS RULE INDIANA
SAYS MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Small Political Units, Can Save America From Misrule, Author Tells Meeting.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 3.—Picturing Indiana as suffering from a breaking down of government under law, Meredith Nicholson, Hoosier author, told the Wisconsin State Teachers' Association today that "the super-government of the Klan and the intimidation of lawmakers and government executives by the Anti-Saloon League have brought their inevitable result."

SECOND DAUGHTER OF "NIGHT CLUBS QUEEN" WINS PRIZE

Profitless Grow After War.
Soldiers and sailors on leave, from high officers to privates, sought out her gay resorts. The mad women of that period went to her clubs and met the soldiers and sailors. After the war the profits were even larger.

She was careful when her daughters began appearing at her clubs. She saw that they met only the best men, the best in family tradition and the best in contemporary reputation. Presumably she did not bother much about the finances of the prospective suitors, for both the peer who is her son-in-law and the peer who is to be her son-in-law are listed among the poor of England's noble families.

Mrs. Merrick has no intention, she said recently, of quitting the night club profession in the near future, because, although she has made a great deal of money, she also has spent a great deal. Much of the money has gone for fines. From time to time police would raid the clubs, alleging violation of the liquor restriction laws which forbid the sale of intoxicants after midnight. When one of her clubs was closed, Mrs. Merrick would always start a new club elsewhere. She has started perhaps twenty.

Mother Arrested Frequently.
She was frequently arrested, generally escaping with nothing more than a fine, but two years ago she served a sentence of six months. While she was in jail her daughters carried on the night club business.

Her frankness in court is one of the things which have most won her London regard. She has never denied her illegal acts and loved to make light of laws which she has maintained are broken elsewhere. She doesn't see in effect, why she should not make a living by serving the after-theater needs of the world's metropolis.

She recently purchased a mansion overlooking Regents Park. The Earl of Kinnoull not long ago had to sell the antique furnishings of his ancestral castle in order to free himself of the perpetual harassment of creditors seeking payment of old family debts.

Lord de Clifford is not yet of age. His father who died in 1903, set something of a precedent for the action of his son. In 1908 he married Eva Carrington, a famous musical comedy star, and created a sensation not unlike the one his son created last year. She finally was accepted by society, however, because of her charm and her beauty.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 3.—One man was dismissed from the University of Illinois for stealing by the Council of Administration at a meeting last night. Two others were suspended for one semester for violating the no-automobile ruling, while another was suspended for two weeks for driving a car without a permit.

Killed by Auto on Highway 13.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CLINTON, Mo., Nov. 3.—Alvin Weller, 25 years old, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by John L. Davis, a farmer, on highway 13, south of Clinton, last night. Weller and a woman companion were going to a suburban dance hall. Davis said Weller stepped in front of the car as he attempted to pass.

90 PUPILS LED OUT OF BURNING SCHOOL

None Hurt in Fire at Bayless
No. 1 on Hege Avenue in County.

Ninety children were led to safety by a teacher when fire was discovered today in Bayless School No. 1 on Hege avenue, north of Gravois road, in St. Louis County. No one was hurt.

The pupils, boys and girls in primary grades, had just assembled in the two class rooms on the first floor when the teacher in charge, Miss Elizabeth Newcomb, smelled smoke and then saw it coming from the basement through cracks in the flooring. In a matter-of-fact manner, so as not to alarm the children, she said: "There's some smoke in the basement. I think we ought to go out and get some fresh air."

The children, under her leadership, marched out of the building and learned then that it was on fire. Anxious mothers came running to the school.

The fire, the cause of which has not been determined, originated in the basement, and was confined to that portion of the one-story brick structure. Damage was estimated at $1500.

The school is in an unincorporated district without fire protection, but two engine pumps and a hose truck from St. Louis were sent to the scene and were instrumental in extinguishing the fire. Hose lines were stretched from a well at Gravois road north to the school building, a distance of approximately 200 yards.

Mrs. Violet C. Bascom, principal of the school, was en route to it from another Bayless school when the fire was discovered. There are 100 Bayless schools in that district.

ORDINANCES DRAWN TO BUY
PLAZA LAND FOR $165,000

Two Parcels of Property at Southwest Corner of Fifteenth and Pine Streets Covered.

Ordinances for the purchase of two parcels of property at the southwest corner of Fifteenth and Pine streets, for Memorial Plaza, have been prepared by the Comptroller's office for the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee. One piece, fronting 75 feet on Pine and extending 102 feet on Fifteenth, with a three-story brick building, is to be purchased from Mrs. Ida McKinley for $105,000. The other, 1408-08 Pine, with 50 feet front by 140 feet deep, owned by the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co., and is to be bought for $60,000.

Including these, the ground acquired will be about one-third the needed area, but the cost, $1,625,000, does not represent so large a proportion of the total cost, as high-value property on Twelfth boulevard is still to be acquired. The 1923 bond issue provided $5,000,000 for acquisition of land, and $1,000,000 for a Memorial building.

GERMAN CLUBHOUSE TO BE AT LAFAYETTE AND JEFFERSON

Deutsches Haus Society Decides on Duestrow Property; Former Home of Dr. Taussig Sold.

The Deutsches Haus Society has decided to erect a German clubhouse and theater building, to cost several hundred thousand dollars, on the old Duestrow property at 2345 Lafayette avenue.

The Dr. William Taussig home on Lafayette near Grand boulevard was bought two years ago for the site of the Deutsches building, but shareholders decided for the site at Jefferson avenue, and the Taussig home was sold last week at a profit of $2000. The building on a site with 175-foot frontage, will house 30 clubs and have a large convention hall and theater where the German Theater Society will be invited to make its headquarters.

AUTOS SNOWBOUND IN WYOMING BLIZZARD

One Bus Overturns and Another Burns After Hitting Electric Wire.

By the Associated Press.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 3. A three-day blizzard along the continental divide in Western Wyoming has left 75 motorists marooned at Medicine Bow. Many tourists were forced to abandon automobiles at other points.

While there were reports that passengers on a bus operating between Laramie and Medicine Bow were injured when the machine overturned, there was nothing to indicate that any was in a serious condition. A driver of another bus was burned and the passengers forced into the snow when the car struck a high tension wire. The passengers were taken to Medicine Bow.

Although passengers on the bus which burned declared three of their number were last seen fighting their way through the storm, authorities were unable to verify this. The driver said all his passengers were taken to Medicine Bow.

Many persons who abandoned automobiles at Laramie and Rock Springs, Wyo., arrived here today.

Tumors that a plane bearing Mrs. Waldo Johnston of Cooper town, N. Y., to Los Angeles, had been lost, were dispelled when the machine arrived here five hours overdue. The pilot said he fought winds of 40 to 60 miles an hour from Chicago to Salt Lake City, and was forced once to refuel. Mrs. Johnston was attempting to keep a dinner engagement in Los Angeles last night. She will continue today.

Large crews were at work on highways in Western Wyoming and Eastern Utah today in the hope of reaching the motorists at Medicine Bow before night. Although snow has been general in the Mountain States this week, roads in the lower altitudes have been kept open most of the time.

DRIVER APPEALS FROM $1500
IN FINES AND IS DISCHARGED

Henry Schaumburg Denies Charge of Careless Driving, Intoxication and Defective Brakes.

Henry Schaumburg, 2249 Gravois avenue, appealing from $1500 in fines assessed against him in Police Court on charges of careless driving, driving while intoxicated and having defective brakes, was discharged today by Judge Gayer in Court of Criminal Correction.

A policeman, who arrested Schaumburg, July 30, after his truck collided with another automobile, testified Schaumburg smelled of liquor and "wobbled" and that his brakes needed repair. Schaumburg denied this, and the driver of the other car testified Schaumburg did not appear intoxicated.

Royalty at Naples for Princess Anne's Wedding

Kings of Italy and Spain Will Be Among Witnesses at Ceremonies Saturday at Capedimonte Castle.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch).

NAPLES, Nov. 3.—Royalty from all parts of Europe, aristocrats from Italy, Ministers and Ambassadors are pouring into Naples for the wedding Saturday of the Princess Anne of Bourbon Orleans and the Duke of Apulia, a second cousin of King Victor Emmanuel. The bride is the youngest daughter of the Duc de Guise, who is the nearest descendant of King Louis Philippe, in the male line, is claimant to the throne of France. Princess Anne was 21 years old last August, while the bridegroom is eight years her senior.

King of Spain to Attend.
The King of Spain, Prince Umberto, her apparent to Italy's crown, the former King and Queen of the Hellenes, ex-Queen Amalie of Portugal and Prince Axel of Denmark will be surrounded by a host of other members of European royal families at the civil and religious ceremonies. The King of Italy will be witness for the bridegroom at the civil marriage.

Queen Elena of Italy will not be present owing to the recent death of her sister, Princess Vera of Montenegro. Princess Mafalda of Hesse, the King of Italy's second daughter, only recently a mother, also will be absent, but every other member of the royal house of Savoy will attend, besides the duke contingent of the House of Orleans.

The King of Italy has commanded a suspension of court mourning for four days so as to give full play to the festivities connected with the marriage.

Royal Ceremony at Castle.
The setting for the royal ceremony is in itself magnificent, as Capedimonte Castle, where most of the functions will take place, is rife with priceless art treasures. The Duchess d'Aosta, mother of the bridegroom, is planning to have King Victor Emmanuel occupy the throne during the religious ceremony; but His Majesty sent word that he wished to sit on a simple tribune with the Princess of the blood.

Sumptuous wedding presents are arriving. D'Annunzio struck a highly original note by sending the flying ace, Marchese de Pinedo, here with an airplane, bearing a characteristic letter, a gold cigarette box for the bridegroom and a platinum and ivory bracelet for the bride.

Princess Anne's wedding dress will be of cream satin, with long sleeves, high neck and a tulle draped family veil of Alencon lace embroidered with the arms of Bourbon and Savoy.

The Duchess d'Aosta, wishing to have a harmony of color, has asked all the ladies invited to wear a Spanish court dress of white silk, with high neck, long sleeves and skirts reaching well below the knees, and a white lace mantilla with tulle instead of hat.

After a short honeymoon the couple will proceed to Tripoli, where the Duke commands a native regiment.

Second Ruling Against Remus.
By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 3.—For a second time George Remus has been denied the right to bring Vernon Chubbly, a Federal prisoner, from the Leavenworth penitentiary to testify at his insanity hearing which opens next week. Remus, who has pleaded insanity as a defense for killing his wife, "Irma," in the Leavenworth penitentiary, was again before Federal Judge Hickenlooper today. The judge ruled that he had no power to subpoena a witness who is living outside of the Southern Ohio Federal district.

Two weeks ago Judge Hickenlooper ruled that he had no jurisdiction to act.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DOROTHY MAYNARD

Light Opera Singer Had Appeared in Municipal Opera in St. Louis.

Funeral services for Dorothy Maynard, for three seasons prima donna of the Municipal Opera, who died Tuesday night in a hospital at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., following an operation performed a week before, were held today at Dobbs Ferry, where Miss Maynard made her home.

In private life she was Mrs. Edward Winslow. She is survived by her husband and a 15-year-old daughter. Her death followed a sudden collapse when it had been thought she was improving.

Miss Maynard appeared with the Municipal Opera the seasons of 1923, 1924 and 1926. She was of French-Canadian descent, her mother, Jeanette de Longre, having been a French singer. She studied under Mme. Marchesi in Italy and also had training in Paris. She made her light opera debut in "Red Feather," of which Grace Van Studdford, noted St. Louis singer, was the star. She appeared in "The American Maid" and "The Girl in the Kimono" in 1913 and in "The Shogun" in 1914, thus establishing a reputation on Broadway.

"Mlle. Modiste," "Firefly," "Rose Maiden," "Kissing Time" and "Naughty Marietta" were other comic operas in which she starred.

26,000 CLAIMS FOR INSURANCE ON TORNADO LOSSES

Estimates on How Much These Represent in Payments Range From $5,000,000 to $11,000,000.

More than 26,000 insurance claims growing out of the tornado Sept. 29 have been filed with the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in the temporary office opened in the Pierce Building after the tornado as a clearing house for claims. Estimates obtainable today of how much these claims would represent in payments ranged from $5,000,000 to $11,000,000.

Neither the total amounts of the claims nor the sums paid out have been tabulated, for attention has been focused on adjustments and sending claims through to home offices of insurance companies for payment.

Harvey W. Russ, general adjuster for the national board, in charge of the local office, still clung to his estimate, made several weeks ago, that insurance payments as a result of the tornado would approximate $5,000,000.

On the other hand, Carl S. Lawton, general manager of the Lawton-Byrne-Bruner Insurance Agency Co., said he knew of four large agencies alone through which payments totaling about $5,250,000 would be made. The agencies, he added, wrote less than 10 per cent of the tornado insurance. Consequently, he said, the total payments would be nearer $11,000,000 than $5,000,000.

As high as 500 claims a day have been passing through Russ' office for a checkup to prevent duplication of payment for tornado damage. Most of these claims are sent in by agencies. Claims are still being filed with the national board at the rate of several hundred a day. A large percentage of these claims have been paid. By Dec. 1, the bulk will have been paid, according to Lawton. To facilitate payments, the national board has had 125 adjusters at work in the tornado area.

The largest tornado claim paid to date was that of Hemp & Co., 1939 South Vandeventer avenue, a sheet metal plant. Its loss was settled for approximately $200,000. The plant is being rebuilt.

Probably the Largest Claim. A still larger claim was expected to result from the tornado loss of Buck's Store and Range Co., 3500 North Second street. The plant was unroofed and between 6000 and 7000 new stoves were exposed to the weather for three days.

The tornado loss is distributed among about 150 insurance companies, most of them in the East and in Europe.

The Fire Prevention Bureau, Pierce Building, has sent a staff of inspectors into districts adjoining the tornado area to examine buildings for minor damage, such as cracked walls and chimneys, as a precautionary measure against fire.

Wherever minor damage is discovered, the building owner is advised to repair. This survey will not be completed until about Jan. 1.

Many Refugees Returning to Homes in Tornado Area. An area of 210 square blocks partially deserted after the tornado struck it is being repopulated by families moving back into repaired and rebuilt homes. A month of good weather has given impetus to the reconditioning of storm-damaged dwellings and the return of refugees.

The Red Cross, which moved 4600 families out of the tornado area within a week after the disaster, is moving about five families a day back to their old homes, but most families now are moving without Red Cross aid.

Brisk weather of the past two days brought about a demand for coal as well as food, bedding and heavier clothing from families still receiving emergency aid from the Red Cross. These demands were easily handled.

largest fibre can plant in the country confining its entire efforts to the manufacture

Here are made the liquid containers in which you buy your ice cream and cottage

CITIES AGAIN DENIED CONTROL OVER BUSESSES

State Service Commission Refuses to Reopen Hearing on Yelloway ePrmit.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 3.— Claims of cities that they have exclusive control of use of their streets by all the bus companies, a right that has been upheld as to other common carriers and utilities, again was denied by the State Public Service Commission today in overruling motions of the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City for a rehearing on a permit granted to the Yelloway, Inc.

The cities probably will carry the case to the Supreme Court, as they repeatedly have attacked the jurisdiction of the commission to grant permits to bus companies for use of city streets without the bus companies first obtaining permission from the cities. No test of the new motor bus regulatory law has reached the Supreme Court.

Contentions of the cities that they also have control of the rates and operating practices of bus lines within their municipal limits probably will not be sustained by the Supreme Court. In view of a line of decisions holding that the Public Service Commission has exclusive control of rates, valuations, an operating practices of public utilities. However, the right of the cities to control use of their streets by common carriers and other public utilities frequently has been upheld by the courts.

In granting the Yelloway a permit to operate a bus line between St. Louis and Kansas City, over No.
40, the commission rejected protests of the two cities that the commission could not grant the permit until the company obtained franchises from the cities for use of their streets. No such franchises had been obtained, although one section of the bus law requires that such franchises for use of streets must be obtained from the cities before the commission may issue a permit.

The commission ruled that this provision applied to bus lines operating wholly or chiefly within a city. It held the city did not have such control over through bus companies which have only a part of their lines within the city. Under the ruling, the company gained approval from the commission of the route it had selected within the city, over the protest of the city and without obtaining a permit from the city.

In attacking the commission's jurisdiction to issue a permit under such conditions the cities also relied upon another section of the bus law, which states "no provision of this act shall be so construed as to deprive any municipality within this State of its respective right to control the use of its streets or of the right to regulate all bus lines operating within its corporate limits."

Gentry Files Suits to Out Two Bus Companies.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 3.—Attorney-General Gentry today filed in the Supreme Court cluster suits against the American Motor Stage Co. and Mid-West Transit Co., two bus lines operating between St.
Louis and Kansas City over Federal Highway No. 40.

The petitions ask for ouster for violation of the charter privileges and failure to comply with the new motorbus regulatory law.
The two lines are alleged to have failed to obtain permits from the Public Service Commission and to have failed to obtain from the Corporation Department certificates of authorization to begin business.

The suits are the outgrowth of arrests of bus drivers at St.
Charles and Odessa within the last week.

Another bus line which has failed to obtain permits will be proceeded against in a county in Western Missouri.
Gentry said other motor bus companies were under investigation to determine what authority they had for operating in the State. Two companies now running between St. Louis and Kansas City on Highway No. 40 have made no application to the State Corporation Department of Missouri charters, or to operate in the state as a foreign corporation, and one of them, the Ni-Sun company, has made no application to the Public Service Commission for a permit.

Applications of the Midwest Transit Co. and the American Motor Stages Co. for permits have been heard by the Public Service Commission, but no decision has been made by the commission.

DRIVERS REPORT PERIL OF CROSSING ON SKINKER ROAD

Rock Island Trains Often Pass When Roadway Is Difficult to Clear, It Is Pointed Out.

90 SECONDS GIVEN
TO WARN TRAFFIC

Watchman's Difficulties Increased by Presence of Two Street Car Tracks,
One Crossing Railroad.

Numerous complaints about the dangers of the Rock Island grade crossing at Skinker road have been made recently, particularly by motorists who attend football games at the Washington University stadium.

An eastbound passenger train passes the crossing at 5:29 p. m., about the time the crowd from the football field is at its thickest. Some motorists have said the traffic congestion on Skinker road made it all but impossible to clear the street in time to get the gates down before the train passed.

The crossing watchman at Skinker road has about a minute and a half between his first warning and the time the train passes. The trains set off an automatic buzzer in his shack when they are about a mile west of the crossing.

Saturday evening and other occasions when traffic is heavy, Olive-University street cars, which parallel the railroad tracks, and City Limits line cars, which cross it, frequently add to the traffic tangle and make it difficult to clear the track promptly.

The only safeguard provided for use in the event the crossing cannot be cleared of traffic in time to let the train pass, is the equipping of the watchman with torpedoes and a red flag. With these he might be able to stop the train should the street be blocked. Such a contingency has not yet arisen.

Four passenger trains pass the crossing daily, two in the morning and two in the evening. Warning of the approach of trains from the east is given the watchman from the De Baliviere Avenue Station, where they stop. In such cases he has ample time to lower the gates.

From time to time attempts have been made to abolish the Skinker grade crossing, but it is now probable that it will be abandoned altogether.

City engineers suggested to the Rock Island several years ago that it send its trains from its line to the Terminal belt line and thence into St. Louis over the Wabash, inasmuch as the Rock Island was already using the Wabash tracks from De Baliviere avenue east. On this project, however, the roads failed to agree.

Meanwhile it was determined the Skinker crossing could not be lowered, nor for that matter could any of the crossings east of the Wabash Delmar Station, until the completion of the River des Peres drainage project makes it possible to keep a railroad cut in that locality clear of water.

Eventually, the Wabash tracks east from Delmar boulevard crossing are to be depressed, the project being aimed at the abolition of the De Baliviere and Union boulevard grade crossings. The Rock Island, however, has been negotiating with the Frisco for the use of its inbound tracks in the southwest section of the city and, city officials are informed, it is probable the Rock Island's present tracks from the west will be abandoned as far as that section within St. Louis and University City are concerned.

West of Skinker road the next Rock Island grade crossing is at Big Bend boulevard. There is another at Westmoreland avenue and a third at Forsythe boulevard. These three crossings are guarded only by automatic signals which cause red lights to flash and bells to ring on approach of a train. At the Westmoreland avenue crossing the tracks run at a dangerous angle to the roadway.

East of Skinker road the Rock Island shares the next grade crossing, De Baliviere avenue, with the Wabash. All Rock Island trains stop at the station there, but the 17 daily Wabash trains make their stop at Delmar, relying on the watchman to get the crossing clear and the gates down in time for them to pass.

The Wabash also has grade crossings at Olive Street road, Hammond avenue and Page avenue. These are crossed by hundreds of automobiles daily, as well as by street cars. These also are guarded by gates.

His despair turned to joy
When painful skin trouble is healed after resisting many treatments

"I work at Electro Plating and have what is known as 'Platers' trouble." Every Plater has it more or less, but I am unfortunate enough to get it all over my body from my head to my feet. My skin just opened up into a million and one deep cuts, from which ran a nasty watery fluid. I suffered tortures even after many different treatments. I was very much discouraged for some time and had about given up all hope of ever being healed when I tried your Resinol Soap and Ointment. I immediately began to get better and today my face and the tender parts of my body are entirely healed without even a scar. I'll boost Resinol every chance I get and I wish everybody suffering from this trouble, especially that caused by Electro Plating, would give it a fair trial." (Signed) Samuel J. Dykes, 303 Laurel St., East Haven, Conn.

THOMPSON ANSWERS INJUNCTION SUIT

Insists He Has Right to Burn Library Books, but Says He Will Not Do So.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Mayor Thompson has replied to a suit for an injunction restraining him or his subordinates from destroying prohibited books of the Chicago Public Library with the remark: "I can burn the books, but I won't."

Chief among the contentions set forth in the Mayor's reply, which will be filed in the form of a demurrer before Circuit Judge Fisher today, were the following: Citizens do not have the right to unrestricted use of books in the public library; the right to decide what publications shall be received into the public library or removed therefrom is invested with the directors of the Library Board, and may not be interfered with by injunction; the Mayor has the right to investigate or cause to be investigated any public institution; no injunction can be issued against the defendants to restrain them from destroying books of the library, because such is their legal privilege; the Mayor and his co-defendants had no intention of destroying any books or having them destroyed.

THOMPSON ANSWERS

INJUNCTION SUIT

He Has Right to Burn Library Books, but Says He Will Not Do So.CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Mayor Thompson has replied to a suit for an injunction restraining him or his subordinates from destroying pre-British books of the Chicago Public Library with the remark,
"I can burn the books, but I won't."Chief among the contentions set forth in the Mayor's reply, which will be filed in the form of a declaration before Circuit Judge Fisher today, were the following: Citizens do not have the right to unrestricted use of books in the public library; the right to decide what publications shall be received into the public library or removed therefrom is invested with the directors of the Library Board, and may not be interfered with by injunction; the Mayor has the right to remove any public institution; no injunction can be issued against the defendants to restrain them from destroying books of the library, because such is their legal privilege; the Mayor and his co-defendants had no intention of destroying any books or having them destroyed.

Superintendent William McAndrew's weekly day in court on charges of Anglicizing American history in Chicago schools, developed yesterday into another ser-of dissertations on the broad subject of British propaganda in general.There was some specific testimony which sought to show that Mayor Thompson's slogan "America First" might not have received the full support he desired in the schools; most of the session, however, was taken up with testimony aimed at alleged efforts to win American sympathy to England.

Dr. Frederick P. Schrader, New York, formerly editor of The Patherland, testified that social influences and concessions by titled persons were favors bestowed on 2000 Americans who have received various British decorations.
"Almost all the heads of America's big universities have received some sort of decoration from England," he said."Our immigration laws for one thing favor the British," Schrader declared.

MURDER OF WOMAN UNSOLVED

By the Associated Press.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 3.—A search, as yet fruitless, for clues concerning the murderer of Mrs.
Elizabeth McKirtick, 78 years old, in her home at Zwingle, Ia., was
of $24,000 she is thought to have hoarded has been discovered.Only one room had been ransacked, and a mattress thought to have been the hiding place of her money gave up nothing when searched by officers. Half of the $1400 found was in bills and the rest in gold. Two uncash checks dated 1924 were found. The mur-derer is thought to have been committed yesterday, shortly before Harry Simpson, seeking to rent one of Mrs. McKirtick's farms, found the kitchen door locked and saw her body through a window.
The only possible clue is a half-burned cigarette found on a table.

New Law Demanding Proof of Age Halts Obtaining of License
In New York.By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—William Collier Jr., stage and screen actor, will marry Dorothy McCarthy, musical comedy actress, in a few days, even though the City Clerk refused them a license because Miss McCarthy failed to prove she is 20 years old.A law requiring marriage license applicants between 18 and 21 years to present proof of theirage, halted the pair yesterday in their effort to obtain a license.
After learning of the new requirements, they left to find Miss Mc-Carthy's birth record at Holy Cross Church, while the license office was held open an hour overtime. But they did not return.
Collier and his father, William Collier Sr., stage star, recently appeared here together in a vaudeville skit. "Buster" as the younger Collier is known, is 25 years old, and has been in motion picture work five years. He was reported engaged to Constance Talmadge before her marriage to Capt. Alastair Macintosh, whom she recently divorced.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST OVERLOADED TRUCKS

Road Engineer Says They Have Done $50,000 Damage in County in Year.

Two Deputy Constables and the St. Louis County Highway Engineer, Roy Jablonsky, started out with portable scales this morning to make a check of overloaded trucks, which, Jablonsky estimated, have done damage to county roads amounting to $50,000 in the last year.

Loading four-wheel trucks in excess of 24,000 pounds gross, or six-wheel vehicles in excess of 30,000 pounds gross, is a misdemeanor punishable by $500 fine and 12 months in jail. The owner is liable for full repairs and "any peace officer" is authorized to compel unloading of the excess weight.

"I have no inclination to deal lightly with such offenders," said Justice of the Peace Werremeyer. "St. Louis County has pulled out of its financial hole by cutting down road expenses, and it is not fair for truck-owners deliberately to raise maintenance costs."

Jablonsky's $50,000 estimate of damage covers only about 100 miles of macadam road, serving several quarries and sections where building is active, on which the cost of maintenance is $1000 a mile each year instead of the normal $500. The burden was thrown on the county, he related, about a year ago when the State Highway Commission placed two patrolmen on the four State highways in the county. Overloaded trucks forsook State for county roads.

He said the chief offenders were construction, quarry and material concerns. He has sought their cooperation, and several of the larger companies have instructed their employees to keep within the law.

HOTEL OPERATORS OF THREE STATES MEET IN ST. LOUIS

About 300 at Convention at Statler to Discuss Problems of Their Business.

Hotel operators gathered at Hotel Statler today in the first sessions of a convention of the Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma Hotel Men's Association. About 300 are registered.

A discussion of labor turn over and opposition of hotel men to unionization of their employees was the principal business of the morning session. H. A. Pope, general manager of cafeterias conducted by the International Shoe Co. was the speaker.

Tomorrow's features will concern the development of coffee shops, formerly considered unsuitable for first-class hotels, and a talk by W. E. Downs, of St. Joseph, Mo., on the value of an airport to a community and its relation to the hotel business.

A banquet will be held tomorrow night at Hotel Chase at which Lawrence McDonald, former prosecuting attorney, will be the principal speaker. Others on the program are Thomas C. Green, of New York, president of the American Hotel Men's Association, and Walter Gregory, manager of the Palmer House in Chicago. The convention will be concluded Saturday.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES IN MISSOURI SHOW INCREASE

But Total in Nation Drops 83 in Week; Pennsylvania Situation Serious.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. — The number of infantile paralysis cases in the United States dropped off 83 during the last week. There are 453 cases, against 536 a week ago.

States in which the number of cases increased were Indiana, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. The situation remains most severe in Pennsylvania, where 243 cases were reported. The number of cases in Massachusetts dropped from 159 a week ago to 66.

Increases were reported in the number of diphtheria and scarlet fever cases. Diphtheria cases numbered 2520 and scarlet fever 2846.

REVISION OF BRIDGE PLANS

Approval of a minor revision of plans for the new highway bridge over the Mississippi River at Chain of Rocks has been given by the War Department. Instead of having two 400-foot spans and two 300-foot spans among those over the land in either approach, there will be four 300-foot spans, which will be somewhat more economical. The river sections are unchanged.

Excavation for the first pier on the St. Louis shore has been started and a long railroad spur to carry materials is being built on the Illinois side.

College Governors at Missouri U. COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—College officials from 15 states and Porto Rico gathered here today in the convention of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions. Among approximately 30 delegates were all members of the University of Missouri board of curators. Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University here, delivered the address of welcome and response was given by Walter A. Pratt, a representative of the University of Nevada. Speakers today were James P. Wood, trustee of Virginia Polytechnic Institution;

Prof. E. J. Kerner of the University of Missouri History Department, and James W. Peeler, trustee of the University of Indiana. Gov. Baker will speak tomorrow evening.

F. M. KLEIBER ON JOB

Late Chief Deputy U. S. Tax Collector Was Considered Indispensable in Work.

"The best Chief Deputy in the United States," was the designation given by an Internal Revenue Bureau inspector almost 10 years ago to Frank M. Kleiber, who died yesterday of heart disease and other ailments at his home at 6323 South Rosebury avenue.

At that time Judge Kleiber, as he was known by virtue of prior judicial positions, was chief deputy under George H. Moore, Collector of Internal Revenue, and so indispensable did he make himself to the efficiency of the office that after Moore had retired with the advent of a Republican administration the Democratic chief deputy stayed on the job under Arnold Hellmich and Louis J. Becker, both Republicans.

The job which Judge Kleiber held from his appointment in 1914 until his death was one which required not only the executive and clerical ability necessary to boss an office force ranging from 75 to 100 employees, but also a close familiarity with the intricacies of Internal Revenue laws and regulations.

Familiar With Details. "It was a complicated job," said one of his associates today, "and yet Judge Kleiber was familiar with every detail of office routine and kept every department of the work under close scrutiny. One of the important phases of his work was conference with taxpayers on the payment of corporation and income taxes.

"Of course, he was absolutely familiar with the tax laws and he could give offhand the correct solution to almost any tax problem. And yet he was so careful in his work that invariably he would say after making a pronouncement, 'Now let's look in the book and see what the law says.' It was the rarest exception when the law did not back up his decisions.

"He was a calm man, too, and many a time, when a taxpayer became wrought up over an unusual decision, it was Judge Kleiber's 'Now let's get at this thing quietly' that cooled him off and made him ready to discuss his problems from the standpoint of the law."

Held Judicial Posts. Judge Kleiber was 64 years old. Born in Washington and educated in New York, he had come to St. Louis as a young man. One of his early jobs was in the Circuit Clerk's office. Later he was Judge of the old Wyoming Street Police Court, and after that Justice of the Peace for 20 years.

Collector Moore appointed him Chief Deputy during the Wilson administration. Four months ago the Chief Deputy suffered the loss of a thumb as a result of an infection, but he returned to his desk to leave it two months ago because of the illness of which he died. He had not been confined to his bed until the day before his death.

His wife died five years ago. Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Jane Schleicher, Mrs. Anna M. Talbot and Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Kleiber.

The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. Saturday from Mrs. Schleicher's residence, 7112 Pershing avenue. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

EX-U. S. TREASURER BURKE

DISCHARGED AS A BANKRUPT

Federal Judge Mack Acts Upon Recommendation of Creditors of Insolvent Brokerage Firm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—John Burke, former Treasurer of the United States, was discharged from bankruptcy yesterday by Federal Judge Mack on recommendation of creditors of the brokerage firm of Kardos & Burke, which went to the wall in February, 1922, a short while after the former Treasurer became the junior member.

The man whose boast it was that as Treasurer he handled $262,000,000 without the loss of a cent to the Government, resigned Jan. 8, 1921, to become the innocent dupe of a brokerage firm that, it was later proved, was insolvent at the time he joined it.

At 64 he was left penniless by the failure. Even his life insurance was wiped out.

"What hurts me more than anything else," he is quoted as saying, "is that I, John Burke, former Treasurer of the greatest nation on earth, should have my name connected with a brokerage house which went to the wall and wiped out the money put up with it by many small investors. I give you my word as a man that the first intimation I had of what was going on was when the bankruptcy petition was filed."

Later Louis M. Kardos, senior partner in the firm, cleared Burke of any responsibility for the firm's difficulties.

Beaten as he thought, Burke, after giving the creditors what help he could, went back to North Dakota, resumed the practice of law. The old neighbors showed their faith by electing him a Justice of the Supreme Court in November, 1924.

He was Governor of the State for three terms before he became United States Treasurer.

Three Arrested for $800 Robbery. Three men, arrested in East St. Louis last night by Deputy Sheriff of St. Clair County are implicated by a confession made by one of them in the theft of a cash register and $800 worth of automobile accessories from a filling station in Belleville, Oct. 26.

ARGENTINE HORSEMAN REACHES MEXICO CITY

Former Schoolmaster on 10,000-Mile Ride to New York From Buenos Aires.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3.—Reunited with his injured mount and with more than half his journey behind him, A. H. F. Schiffo, Argentine schoolmaster, was here today waiting to resume what will probably be the longest horseback ride known—from Buenos Aires to New York, 10,000 miles.

Attacks of malarial fever, suffered in the tropical jungles of Central America, had left the rider somewhat weak and thin. His two Argentine ponies, Mancha and El Gato, however, were both in fine shape, sleek and strong despite the hardships of the long trip, begun more than two years ago. The school teacher now believes that the worst of his journey is behind him and that he will reach New York in about four months more.

The pistol, which he bought in Argentina just before his start, reposed peacefully in his holster, for in all his long and hazardous journey he has never had to draw the weapon. The trip took him through jungles filled with wild beasts and through countries where bandits prowled, but during his travels he was not molested by man or beast.

Trip Devoid of Thrills.
Asked to tell of his adventures, Schiffo replied laughingly: "People who have adventures are those who travel on railroad trains. Really, my trip has been surprisingly devoid of thrills."

The schoolmaster's journey is intended to demonstrate the superiority of Argentine horsemanship, strength, endurance and ability to withstand hardships and the most adverse conditions.

El Gato was kicked by a pack mule in Guatemala and sent here several weeks ago to a veterinary hospital. Completely recovered, the horse was reunited with his master as the latter, mounted on Mancha, approached Mexico City. His face lighting up at the sight of his reconditioned mount, Schiffo spurred Mancha forward as El Gato trotted toward him. He dismounted and threw both arms around El Gato's neck, crying "Pobrecito, pobrecito, como esta" ("Poor little fellow, poor little fellow, how are you?").

Presented With New Hat.
His voice quivering, he continued to fondle El Gato and address him in endearing terms. The horse nuzzled his master, seeking thus to express his joy in the reunion.

"I will never be able to strike a horse," Schiffo replied when asked if he believed in corporal punishment for children. He replied that he thought it was in some cases, and then continued, pointing to his riding whip: "You carry it only because it was a gift to me in one of the cities I visited. I have never used it. I could never strike one of my horses under any condition."

The schoolmaster's hat, which he wore most of his trip, was frayed and tattered. Gen. Cruz, Chief of the Police of Mexico City, presented him with a great sombrero, decorated elaborately with gold and silver and weighing several pounds. The horseman's costume now represents almost every country through which he has passed. In addition to the Mexican sombrero, he wears an Argentine poncho, trousers bought in Guatemala, leggings acquired in Colombia, shoes from Costa Rica, necktie from Peru, socks from Bolivia and a belt purchased in Panama.

RAIL MERGER ON FARM PROGRAM OF INSURGENTS

Brookhart, Speaking for Western Republican Bloc, Offers Consolidation as Means of Rate Cut.

RADIO MAY BE USED FOR NORRIS BOOM

Owner of High-Powered Station at Muscatine Offers to Put Up Plant for Political Speeches.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Enactment of a railroad consolidation measure as part of the farm relief program was advocated today by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, in a statement issued in behalf of the group of Western Independent Republican Senators.

"The farm problem," he said, "cannot be solved by the mere enactment of a farm bill. There is no single farm bill that is a cure-all for all the discriminations against agriculture. About 10 per cent of the farmers' troubles are due to excess charges for transportation."

The independents who favor the presidential candidacy of Senator Norris of Nebraska, worked on plans today for spreading their views through the Middle West by use of the radio. Norman Baker, owner of a 10,000-watt broadcasting station at Muscatine, Ia., has volunteered to erect a small station here by which to carry their messages to his station for re-broadcasting.

If the campaign is pushed into other states than Nebraska, it seems destined to force a showdown between the farm forces led by Norris and Lowden, both advocates of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill. Senator Borah of Idaho, one of Norris' chief supporters, voted against this measure but in reply to the criticism of him by the St. Louis farm conference yesterday he asked that "friends of agriculture be not misled." He also called on the conference to name its candidate.

Senator Brookhart proposed a bill requiring railroads to consolidate by condemnation of their stocks and bonds, providing for their operation in a "little private corporation," earnings of which would be fixed by law, with power in Congress to recapture the stock at par.

The Iowa Senator declared that American farmers received about 15 cents a bushel less for their wheat than Canadian farmers because of railroad rate discriminations.

"The American farmer," he said, "is compelled to pay a transportation tax of 45 cents per bushel on wheat to the railroads in the United States for their so-called efficient private management, from which the Canadian farmer is relieved by the Government-operated roads in his country."

Thinks Rail Value High.
He declared that tentative valuation of the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission gave the roads a "regal value" of $1,000,000,000 more than their market value, as the farms are always valued.

"The law then gives them a return of 5 1/2 per cent upon this inflated valuation, water and all. The farmers must contribute in excess freight rates to pay this return, as we have seen upon wheat."

He recalled that in the first year after war-time government operation, operating expenses of the railroads were increased by $1,482,000,000 of which, he said, $600,000,000 went to labor increase "and the balance to graft and the inefficiency of private operation."

RAIL MERGER ON FARM PROGRAM OF INSURGENTS

Western Republican Bloc, Offers Consolidation as Means of Rate Cut.

FOR NORRIS BOMB

Station at Muscatine Offers to Put Up Plant for Political Speeches.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Enactment of a railroad consolidation measure as part of the farm relief program was advocated today by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, in a statement issued in behalf of the group of Western Independent Republican Senators.

"The farm problem," he said, "cannot be solved by the mere enactment of a farm bill. There is no single farm bill that is a cure-all for all the discriminations against agriculture. About 10 percent of the farmers' troubles are due to excess charges for transportation."

The independents who favor the presidential candidacy of Senator Norris of Nebraska worked on plans today for spreading their views through the Middle West by use of the radio. Norman Baker, owner of a 10,000-watt broadcasting station at Muscatine, Ia., has volunteered to erect a small station here by which to carry their messages to his station for re-broadcasting.

If the campaign is pushed into other states than Nebraska, it seems destined to force a showdown between the farm forces led by Norris and the men, both advocates of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill, Senator Borah of Idaho, one of Norris' chief supporters, voted against this measure in reply to the criticism of him by the St. Louis farm-folk yesterday. He asked that "friends of agriculture be not misled." He also called on the conference to name his candidate.

Senator Brookhart proposed a bill requiring railroads to consolidate by condemnation of their stocks and bonds, providing for their operation in a "little private corporation, earnings of which would be fixed by law, with power in Congress to recapture the stock at par."

The Iowa Senator declared that American farmers received about 15 cents a bushel less for their wheat than Canadian farmers because of railroad rate discriminations.

"The American farmer," he said, "is compelled to pay a transportation tax of 45 cents per bushel on wheat to the railroads in the United States for their so-called efficient private management, from which the Canadian farmer is released by the Government-operated roads in his country."

He said that the tentative valuation of the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission gave the roads a "legalized value of $7,440,000,000 more than their market value, as the farms are always valued."

"The law then gives them a return of 5 percent upon this inflated valuation, water and all. The farmers must contribute in excess freight rates to pay this return, as we have seen upon wheat."

He recalled that in the first year after war-time government operation, operating expenses of the railroads were increased by $1,481,000,000 of which, he said, $600,000,000 went to labor increase and the balance to graft and the inefficiency of private operation.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Minister of Commerce Bokanowski has found a way to settle the French tariff difficulties with America which has been the subject of the French Government.

A note which he has prepared offers to restore the old tariffs in force before last Sept. 6, except where these are below the present minimum in which case American exporters to France will pay the same as countries with the most favored nation treaties. COOLIDGE CALLS ON NATION TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

Proclamation Urges Special Exercises to Further the Cause of Permanent Peace.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—By proclamation, President Coolidge yesterday set aside Nov. 11 as Armistice day, calling upon the people to express their gratitude for peace and their desire for a continuance of amicable relations with other nations.

The proclamation says: "Whereas, the eleventh of November, 1918, marked the cessation of the most destructive, sanguinary and far-reaching war in human annals; and

"Whereas, it is fitting that the recurring anniversary of this day should be commemorated with thanksgiving and prayers and by exercises designed to further the cause of permanent peace through the maintenance of good will and friendly relations between nations; and

"Whereas, by concurrent resolution of the Senate and the House of Representatives, in 1926, the President was requested to issue a proclamation for the observance of Armistice day:

"Now, therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, in pursuance of said concurrent resolution, do hereby order that the flag of the United States be displayed on all Government buildings on Nov. 11, 1927, and do invite the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches, and other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies, giving expression to our gratitude for peace and to our sincere desire that such amicable relations with all other peoples may continue."

FILIPINO LEADER QUEZON RECEIVED BY COOLIDGE

Visitor Apparently Pleased by Reception; Independence Not Discussed, He Says.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Conditions in the Philippine Islands were discussed today with Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, and Senator Osmena who arrived here yesterday. The Philippine leader said the question of independence was not touched upon and that the President invited them to return for further discussion if they desired to do so. Both Quezon and Osmena appeared pleased by their reception. Pedro Guevara, Philippine resident commissioner, accompanied them.

Quezon had no sooner left the White House when Representative Underhill (Rep., Massachusetts) made a plea to President Coolidge against any change in his sentiment that the bill to permit 6000 lepers to leave a segregated colony and return to their homes.

COMPULSORY FIGHTING PART OF DISCIPLINE IN SCHOOL

New York Principal, Exonerated, Says Pupil Refused to Sing "Star Spangled Banner."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A Brooklyn high school principal told court yesterday how compulsory fighting had been a part of the school disciplinary system.

William H. Rainey, the principal, was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct made by Ralph Esposito, a 15-year-old pupil, who said that Rainey had called him a "skunk," told him he was "yellow" and made him fight another boy.

The principal explained that Esposito had been sent to him with the report that the boy had refused to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" because he had a bad cold. Thereupon, Rainey continued, a "school custom" was followed and the boy was given the choice of fighting his mother summoned or putting on the gloves with a boy of his weight.

The Court dismissed the charge against the principal.

NEW PARTY URGED TO CARRY ON FIGHT FOR FARM RELIEF

Conference Told Agriculturalists Can Expect No Aid From Coolidge, Mellon, Hoover and Jardine.

FOR McNARY-HAUGEN BILL REPASSAGE

Importance of Retaining the Equalization Fee Feature Stressed by Speakers at Parley.

After a two-day farm and cooperative marketing conference, 350 representatives of the grain, cotton and general agricultural industry of the Middle West and South departed last night for their homes in a score of states with new determination to fight without quarters till farming takes its place as a business fostered by the Government on an equality with commerce, manufacturing and banking.

The St. Louis gathering, called recently by George W. Donaghey, Little Rock banker and farmer and former Governor of Arkansas, was declared by its leaders to be representative and one entitled to make demands on Congress. It was notable for its earnestness and unanimity of expression. There was not a dissenting voice when a set of strong-term resolutions was presented yesterday afternoon, and they were approved at once.

Farm Relief Demanded.

Gist of these resolutions was: A demand for repassage of the McNary-Haugen act to control farm product surpluses and its approval by the President, or passage of a closely similar act; a refusal to accept any substitute measure, such as one proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

An expression of belief that opposition to proper farm relief comes from dealers and speculators in crops and from "certain groups of the industrial East desiring cheap foodstuffs without regard to the producers' fate."

A request that Congressmen and Senators from agricultural states see that avenues are open for enactment of effective farm legislation.

A declaration calling for election as the next President of a man who will be fair to agriculture; criticism of President Coolidge for his veto of the McNary-Haugen act; criticism of Senator Borah of Idaho for his "indifference and obstruction" of farm relief, ranking him in this category with Senators Reed of Missouri, Foss of Ohio and Bruce of Maryland.

An endorsement of the declaration of principles of a previous and similar farm conference in St. Louis a year ago.

Middle West and South United.

An interesting and important phase of the conference just ended was the repeated expression of speakers and listeners that here was a real united of the various states of the South and Middle West, breaking down the old Mason and Dixon line division and old prejudices, with mutual realization of a community of interest.

There was talk of the formation of a new political party based on this union. One speaker said that other parties have been formed on less pretense than the need for farm relief, while another declared that a new one might well do away with a national trend towards imperialism.

In the constantly reiterated demand for repassage of the McNary-Haugen bill or similar legislation, one point was stressed, that was the importance of retaining the equalization fee feature. This fee is the proposed assessment per unit of production of each crop controlled, which would furnish the capital for a governmentally set up corporation to buy surpluses and stabilize prices, without calling on the public treasury. The theory is that better prices would more than offset the fee.

Charles V. Truax, director of agriculture of Ohio, by appointment of the Democratic Governor there, addressing the conference yesterday, declared that President Coolidge, Secretary of Commerce Mellon, Secretary of Agriculture Hoover and Secretary Jardine are "first and foremost" in a group "known for their undying opposition to any legislation that will really give the farmer relief."

He said farmers should look with suspicion on any plan proposed by the President in view of his McNary-Haugen veto and his approval of a higher tariff on pig iron. Secretary Hoover, he continued, has shown a "profound lack of knowledge and an utter lack of sympathy" for the agricultural problem.

TAX CUT HEARING REOPENS HOUSE COMMITTEE FIGHT

Estep and Sweet Not on Ways and Means Roll Call Because of Uncertain Status.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A breach that developed in the ranks of House Republicans in the closing days of the last session over filling two vacancies in that party's membership on the Ways and Means Committee has been brought to notice during the present hearing by the committee on tax reduction.

The two new Republican members, Representative-elect Harry A. Estep of Pennsylvania, and Representative Thaddeus C. Sweet of New York, have not been placed upon the committee roll call because, it was said, there is some uncertainty over whether Estep will retain his tentative place on the committee.

The struggle at some length during a recent executive session of the committee but there has been no public announcement as to what took place.

The fight against Estep was based on the fact that he was a new member and that a post on the committee should be given to a member older in point of service, especially with a number of such members clamoring for the assignment.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 3.—Belief that the earthquake which rocked southeastern Alaska, Oct. 24, had its center in the ocean bottom received some substantiation today after fishermen reported the waters west of here to Cape Spencer had been discolored since the temblor.

In the vicinity of Point Adolphus, Cape Spencer, and Yakobi Island, the fishermen said, deep sea fish have been found on the surface of the water.

Missouri Most Backward State In Reforming Its Criminal Code, Says Report to National Group

Work of Investigators Praised by Richard Washburn Child, but Legislation Is Called "Most Discouraging and Reactionary."

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—In a report submitted to the National Conference on the Reduction of Crime, in session here under the auspices of the National Crime Commission, Missouri is pictured as the most backward of all the States in respect to reform of the criminal code.

The report was by Richard Washburn Child, chairman of the Crime Commission. In his absence it was read for him. It summarizes the results of the commission's attack during the last year on "the disgraceful record of crimes of violence in the United States."

Regarding Missouri, the report says: "The most discouraging and reactionary legislation of all was undoubtedly that of Missouri. The work and recommendations of the Missouri Crime Commission, a voluntary organization, and the oldest statewide commission in existence, has been embodied in the laws of many other States. The legislation it has proposed probably has been the most carefully studied of any legislation suggested in this country. It has made the only serious attempt to ascertain the amount and character of crime in the rural districts. Its statistics are more complete and more helpful to the study of the crime problem than any which have been compiled elsewhere."

Laws on Juris Fails.
"In Wyoming it is now permissive or mandatory legislation for the placing of women on juries was introduced, but in all cases failed to pass."

"On the lighter side it may be noted that seven states, all in the West, have become alarmed over the crime wave as regards the 'chicken coop' and have raised the penalty for the theft of a chicken to the theft of a fowl to the dignity of grand larceny. The antilegalistic thief agitation appears to have reached its climax in Idaho, which has passed a law prohibiting the purchase of a fowl between sunset and sunrise without first notifying the Sheriff."

"North Dakota for some mysterious reason has reduced the penalties against selling snuff to children, and a legislator in New Mexico proposed to make it a criminal offense for school teachers to own or operate poolrooms. This attempt to limit the new freedom of the higher education failed, however, to become a statute, as did also the attempt in two states to repeal the ancient laws against duelling."

"Judging the effectiveness of the law against crime, as shown by the statute books, California undoubtedly stands at the head. A well-considered series of laws completely remodeling the penal code was compiled by a special commission purchased by the Legislature, although not without a long struggle."

"The legislative commission of Michigan likewise was successful in obtaining the passage of very important improvements to the penal code. It is noteworthy to note that the progressive legislatures of both these States found the work of the temporary commissions so valuable as to lead them to pass legislation for the creation of permanent crime commissions such as has been advocated by our body."

"The State of Louisiana, whose criminal laws still are governed by the modification of the old Napoleonic code made by Robert Livingston at the beginning of the nineteenth century and which has been practically unmodified in more than 150 years, has joined the march of progress, and appointed a commission with instructions to speed to make the officials in

MORROW SPENDS FOUR HOURS WITH CALLES

Mexican Executive Takes U. S. Ambassador to His Ranch.

Special Cable to Post-Dispatch and New York World.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3.—President Calles and American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow exchanged expressions for four hours yesterday. Neither would divulge the exact nature of their conversation, though it was without doubt the longest talk any diplomat has had with the President of Mexico for months.

The two men retired to the ranch of President Calles, 20 miles from Mexico City, after the President had sent his car for Ambassador Morrow at 6:15 a. m. They had breakfast at the ranch, the menu including specially prepared American dishes. Afterwards President Calles showed his visitor over his farm, taking great pride in having Morrow see his herd of Holsteins.

The visit marked the first time that Ambassador Morrow had viewed a Mexican hacienda and he enjoyed it greatly. This model farm of President Calles is his pride. Early every morning he goes to it, dons overalls and tools for an hour and a half. He also retires to his farm whenever he wishes to have an uninterrupted talk with anybody on matters of importance.

From the morning newspapers he learned that he had been officially named a member of the American delegation to the Pan American Congress to be held in Havana next January.

In order to become acquainted with Americans in Mexico City, Ambassador Morrow will give a reception tomorrow evening.

throw the antiquated machinery on the dump pile and provide an entirely new and modern code of criminal law and procedure.

"The example of the State of Washington might well be followed by other Legislatures throughout the country. No new legislation was seriously attempted, but a thorough housecleaning was made of obsolete provisions of the code as existing. In all, 22 laws were repealed."

"I cannot urge too much on all the delegates of this conference the advisability of not only adding meritorious provisions to the code, but also of cleaning out of the old rubbish which makes the statutes of the majority of our States greatly less cumbersome and adds greatly to the inefficiency of justice. A commission for the reduction of laws is sadly needed."

The Missouri delegates to the conference are: Miss Carol Bates of the Missouri Welfare League; Guy A. Thompson, Missouri Association for Criminal Justice; R. R. Mitchell, Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., all of St. Louis; W. H. H. Platt of Kansas City, representing the Missouri Bar Association; Judge Ewing Cockrell, Warrensburg; and Lester Rudolph, Jefferson City.

U. S. Detachment Ambushed Twice When Searching for 2 Missing Flyers Near El Chipote.

By the Associated Press.

MATAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 3.—Continuing their search for two missing Marine Corps aviators, a combined combat patrol of United States Marines and National Guardsmen have fought two more engagements with Nicaraguan irregulars, in which 60 of the guerrillas were killed or wounded. One Marine was wounded.

Patrols have been searching the region near El Chipote, Department of Nueva Segovia, ever since Second Lieutenant E. A. Thomas and Sgt. Frank Dowdell engaged in bombing followers of the Irregular Gen. Augusto Sandino, crashed in their plane and disappeared early in October. Although no trace of the missing flyers has been discovered, hope that they still are alive continues and the search for them is being actively pushed by combat patrols in Northwestern Nicaragua.

There have been frequent encounters between the irregulars and these patrols. The combat patrol was commanded by Lieut. C. J. Chappell and Moses J. Gould, who recently engaged the irregulars in a three-hour battle in which cavalry and airplanes participated. Five irregulars were killed in that encounter and several wounded.

Previous to yesterday's encounter, 67 irregulars were killed in severe fighting which occurred when 300 closed in on a patrol of 40 Marines and consulars from three sides. The Marines cut their way out with great difficulty as the irregulars were armed with machine guns and dynamite bombs. There were no casualties among the Marines but four members of the National Guard were killed.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT OPENS
Budget Is Chief Problem to Come Up at Session.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 3.—The French Parliament, which will determine the fate of the present Poincare government, convenes today in its regular autumn session to take up the budget as its chief problem.

M. Franklin-Bouillon resigned the chairmanship of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies. His action resulted from his recent break with the Radical party, which rejected his plan that it remain in Premier Poincare's National Union. M. Franklin-Bouillon is one of the most informed French political figures on Anglo-Saxon affairs. It is reported he will organize a new party in the Chamber composed of radicals who agree with him in favoring support for the Poincare government.

Ship-to-Shore Radio Rules.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Eight articles of regulations providing mostly for standard procedure in international wireless communication between shore and ship stations were approved today by the international radio conference in plenary session. The principal article fixed a standard charge of 40 French gold centimes (12 cents) a word for radiograms from shore to ship and 40 centimes from ship to shore stations. Article 10, Secretary William R. Castle of the State Department told the conference, however, that while the United States could not object to other countries coming to such an agreement among themselves, the United States would have to reserve its right to determine later whether it could subscribe to such an obligation.

Let County Voters Beware of the Bond Issue Project.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ACCORDING to the registration law, no registration can or will be held in St. Louis County for the purpose of adding new names to the voting list for the forthcoming special election, to be held Nov. 29 on the proposed bond issue.

Changes in the lists can be made only in event the elector has moved his residence from one precinct to another. The registration of 1924 stands as the only legal one. Any person not previously registered, or anyone who moved into the county since 1924 is without right to vote until a new general registration is held. That may not be until next fall.

Will the respectable element of the citizenry of St. Louis County permit an election "to be pulled off" under these circumstances without sounding a protest?

It is self-evident that if the Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis County continues to advocate the holding of the election under the existing law, it cannot be regarded as the guardian of the citizen's rights.

Again, let anyone, if he can, obtain from the County Court or the Chamber of Commerce a detailed statement of the proposed work and expenditure. What county roads are to be made or repaired? In addition to the proposed cost of the hospital, how much money will be required to equip it? How many hundreds of thousands annually will it take to operate it? Full time laboratory physicians will have to be employed and paid. Who will the county obtain for the staff? Physicians in the county have no time or inclination to work free of charge.

Statements have been given out in the county that services in the hospital will be both pay and free. Everybody should know the county has no authority to engage in a pay hospital. Moreover, no specifications or architectural plans of the proposed hospital have ever been submitted by the County Court or the Chamber of Commerce. The same is true of the proposed court-house and jail.

Let the voters of St. Louis County beware of the proposition, or make-shift, bond issue project.

Trust Safety Zones Only If You Are an Agile Jumper.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AMONG the recent automobile accidents was that of the driver who ran into a so-called safety zone where several persons were standing waiting to board a street car. He only knocked down and injured four women. Only four, count 'em. All they were doing was standing together. In the foolish belief that, though there was no raised platform or signal to prevent drivers from running them down, a crowd might be seen. That belief undoubtedly made them feel reasonably safe.

If you are not an agile jumper with wings in your feet you had better not stand in one of the sham safety zones, no matter how many fellow victims may be there with you. The bogey blind or drunken driver will get you.

PEDESTRIAN.

Namely, The Nafziger Baking Company.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WORK for a large wholesale bread bakery in the West End and the plant was totally demolished in the tornado. Fortunately no one was seriously injured. They did not bake a loaf of bread for 12 days but my salary and everyone else's was paid. I estimate more than 150 persons work here, so it must have cost them plenty of money.

But the big surprise came when I received a check last week for $60 as my proportion of a tornado fund they created to take care of all employees who had losses at home in household goods, wearing apparel, doctor and hospital fees, and they even paid the men who had damage to their autos parked around the plant.

How many big companies did this? I used to think the boss didn't know I was working—now I know he does.

A GRATEFUL ONE.

Boquet for Conductor No. 1149.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE occasion to ride the street cars quite often. Conductors and motormen are very obliging but one important duty on the conductor's part is often overlooked, that of calling the streets. On the Manchester line only a few call the streets. However, there are a good number all over the city who not only call streets but public places such as hospitals, parks and amusement places. Just the other day I had occasion to ride the Taylor car from Easton to Manchester. The conductor called every street. His number is 1149.

APPRECIATIVE.

"THE LAW IS ON TRIAL."

The Post-Dispatch repeats that the law is on trial in the Fall-Sinclair oil fraud case. Can a criminal court function effectively, under present conditions, to bring to justice malefactors backed by enormous wealth and defended by skillful lawyers who resort to all the technicalities of law which favor defendants?

We use the word malefactors in this case deliberately. The persons accused of crime have not been convicted of a criminal charge, but their guilt has been established in the civil courts. This case is peculiar. The courts, including the highest court of the land, have condemned the oil transactions of Fall and Sinclair as corrupt and fraudulent. The United States Supreme Court has branded Fall as "a faithless public officer," and there is no question of the fraudulent character of the transaction in which, as Secretary of the Interior, Fall, by secret and extraordinary maneuvers, turned over rich naval reserves of the United States to Sinclair and received from Sinclair large sums of money.

The circumstances were somewhat similar in the case of Fall and Doherty, charged with corruption and fraud in the case of the Elk Hills reserve. But the Supreme Court had not then passed upon that transaction and condemned it, as it subsequently did. In that case the jury was mainly at fault. Sufficient facts were brought out to justify a verdict of guilty, but skillful lawyers so played upon the sympathies of the jurors for two old men, lifelong friends, that the defendants were acquitted. How far skillful legal practices played to bring about the result in that case cannot easily be judged.

The Fall-Sinclair case is different. There is no sympathetic or emotional element in that. It was a cold-blooded betrayal of the Government by Fall and a corrupt bargain on the part of Sinclair. The difficulty of getting the evidence before the jury was manifest. No reference to the decision of the United States Supreme Court was permitted, and as one of the jury women declared, in the face of that decision a verdict of acquittal would have made the whole jury ridiculous. The rules of evidence barred out other important facts bearing on the guilt of the defendants. Technically played a large part in shaping the presentation of the prosecution's case. The Judge, under the rules, frequently decided the question of admitting evidence, not on the question of whether it bore on the guilt of the defendants, but whether it was in accord with the rules and practices of criminal trials under the law.

Now the case is complicated by a mistrial, which was caused by the employment of the Burns Detective Agency, at great cost, to shadow jurors and obtain complete information about them, and thus lay the foundation for tampering with the jury. Whether contacts with the jurors, directly or indirectly, were established, and whether or not shadowing the jury is punishable by law, the employment of the detectives for that purpose was a disgraceful proceeding, inevitably, on discovery, leading to suspicion of tampering and to a mistrial. It was an insolent and defiant use of wealth and at least laid the foundation for corrupting the jury and thus defeating the ends of justice.

The facts and character of this disgraceful incident have yet to be determined. But it emphasizes the question which looms above everything else: whether or not, under present processes and practices of the criminal courts, a guilty person can be brought to justice in a court of law. It emphasizes another question: can malefactors of great wealth and influence be punished for crime?

There never was a case which called so imperatively upon the Government to vindicate the law and the courts.

A TEN-MILLION-DOLLAR LESSON.

The railroads were damaged in the amount of $10,000,000 by the floods of last spring and summer, according to a report of the American Railway Association. The Illinois Central was the heaviest sufferer, its loss exceeding $2,000,000. The Missouri Pacific was second, with $1,000,000. Ten other roads sustained losses ranging from $500,000 to $500,000.

Nobody suspects the Mississippi of taking any personal satisfaction in this retaliating upon the railroads, though if a vindictive mood could be attributed to an inanimate monster such reprisal might be put in the category of grim justice. For the railroads have spurned and strangled and trampled the river.

A $10,000,000 lesson is expensive instruction but worth the price if it drives home the fact to the railroads that the Mississippi is a dangerous enemy but can be made a valuable friend. It is a good guess that not only have the railroads learned that lesson but the whole country has learned it. Mr. Hoover did not exaggerate when he described that flood as the worst "peace-time calamity in our history." Responsibility for it is chargeable in great degree to the railroads.

The day of ignoring the river is gone—buried under a national disaster. The river must be harnessed as a matter of safety first. A harnessed river means a river at work. We know what the river can do as a worker under adverse conditions. What it can do fully equipped is not known. It will be known. Flood control means, in the long look ahead, a great system of inland waterways transportation. It means an agricultural and industrial stimulus to the valley in which the "hole country" will share. It means that the cost of living will be lowered. It means more dollars, with higher buying power.

If the American forces in Nicaragua do not watch out one of their shells will hit a mahogany tree and the whole empire will be ruined.

BAD DRIVING.

"He always let them drive him too fast and so death has come to my finest friend." Thus the head of a Chicago bank in speaking of the automobile accident in which John J. Mitchell, the Chicago financier, and Mrs. Mitchell lost their lives.

From the reports it is clear that the chauffeur was driving fast on a wet road. The hazard was aggravated by a fog. Here were all the conditions requiring careful driving. They were ignored. In the necessity of a quick stop the chauffeur jammed the brakes. The inevitable crash followed.

Four-wheel brakes are a reasonable assurance against skidding under careful driving. They are no assurance in the conditions and circumstances described. The professional driver, one would think, would know the limitations of the automobile and the danger of just such a situation as was encountered near Libertyville, Ill., Saturday. This one did not.

OUR NIGGARDLY TREATMENT OF POMERENE AND ROBERTS.

It is a matter for public indignation that Atlas Pomerene and Owen Roberts for months have been paying their own expenses and living on their own means while engaged in the prosecution of the oil cases.

It is a matter for public indignation that appropriations for their work have long ago been exhausted and that, after all expenses had been paid last year, the two men received for their services the ridiculous sum of $5000 each.

While the Government's special attorneys have been suffering from the niggardliness and neglect of their client, the Government, the attorneys for Sinclair, Doherty and Fall have had fortunes at their disposal. The latter are supposed to have collected in fees something like $2,000,000.

Working for practically nothing, Pomerene and Roberts have been dastardly successful in a series of cases calling forth persistence, genuinity, back-breaking labor and legal ability of the highest degree.

They won the case against Doherty for the Elk Hills reserve in the District Court, the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the United States. They won the case against Sinclair for Teapot Dome in the Circuit Court of Appeals after a Wyoming District Court decision against them, and again in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Through their efforts, two properties of enormous value—worth at least a half a billion dollars—have been returned to the people.

After cleaning up in the civil cases, they have hammered away at Sinclair, Doherty and Fall in criminal proceedings. They succeeded in convicting Harry Sinclair for contempt of the United States Senate. The conviction involved a jail sentence, which is now hanging over Sinclair's head.

They failed in one instance, namely, in the criminal case against Doherty and Fall. In that proceeding Pomerene and Roberts, using the same material that convinced a District Judge, the Circuit Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court of the fraudulent character of the Elk Hills lease, were unable to impress a jury. The jury was composed largely of youngsters accepted because they knew nothing of a case that has had a place on the first page of newspapers for years.

After this brilliant record of prosecution, Pomerene and Roberts find themselves obligated to dig down in their own pockets to pay their expenses.

It does not help matters to point out that the last congressional appropriation for them was lost in the filibuster conducted at the end of the last session. In litigation of such transcendent importance as this, the attorneys for the American people should long ago have been provided with a sum in keeping with the task before them.

It is disgraceful that this has not been done. The next Congress cannot act too quickly in putting ample funds at their disposal, and in providing them with compensation for their excellent services.

MEET SUPERPATRIOT DOYLE.

We are not—in these parts—to be without a superpatriot. It seemed for a while that in St. Louis and vicinity there would be no one to join Big Bill Thompson in his fight against King George. Mayor Miller, chosen by Thompson as St. Louis' superpatriot, declined the honor. But we beg leave to present the hero who stepped into the breach. He is Mayor Doyle of East St. Louis. In Mayor Doyle Big Bill Thompson found a customer. Mayor Doyle's $10 check is on its way to Chicago. Mayor Doyle is by way of becoming a charter member of the America First society. Now we in these parts have some one to lead us in the war against King George and all his works. Now we have some one to protect us from pro-British textbooks, and to purge our libraries, drawing rooms and pantry shelves from all evidences of Anglophilism.

LINDERBERG'S JOB.

Col. Lindbergh has done what everybody hoped and believed he would do in accepting a position with the Daniel G. Greenbaum Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics. He is retained in a consulting capacity, it is explained, with the privilege of engaging in any activity which he believes will advance aviation.

The opportunity and the man have happily met. The combination of adequate means and technical skill, plus the flyer's enthusiasm and incomparable prestige, ought to be productive of excellent results. It is by no means impossible that striking progress will be made in this beckoning field of endeavor.

St. Louis, however, has not said farewell to "Lindy." This city naturally cherishes the belief that ultimately an aerial enterprise will be launched here, with possibilities sufficient to command Lindbergh's energy and ambition. What the airplane of the future will be nobody knows. It may be an evolutionary development—a carrying forward of the present basic principles—according to Commander Byrd, or it may be something wholly undreamed of today.

Anyhow, the perfected plane is coming. When it does come commercial aviation will roar into the arena of great industry. St. Louis, Lindbergh has repeatedly said, is bound to occupy a big place on the aviation map. The Spirit of St. Louis insists that Lindbergh share that place.

MR. MACKAY, MEET MR. SHANK.

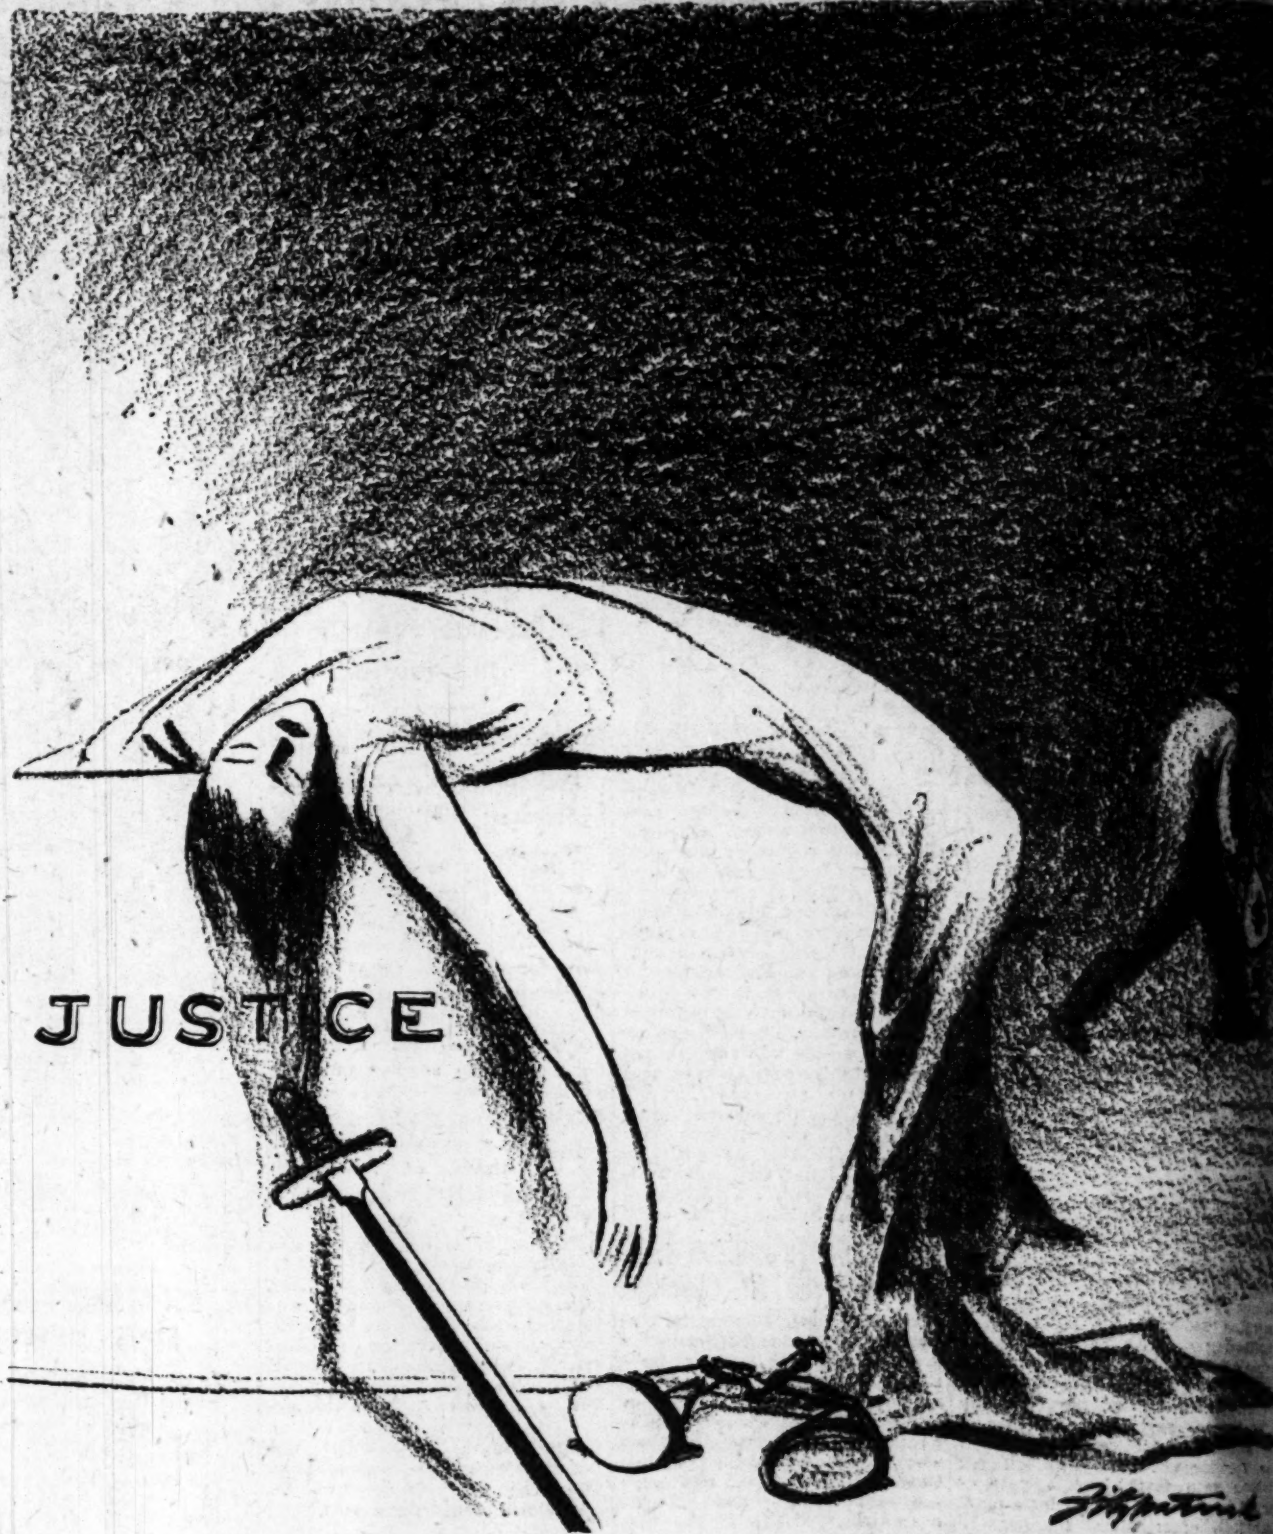

Say this for Boss Vane's candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia, Mr. Mackay: he is no hypocrite. See what he says he will do about job—if he gets to the city hall:

In all appointments I intend to deal directly with the ward leader. He is the man who is responsible, and he knows why he wants a certain man for a place. More than that, he will get the appointment the very day he makes the request.

We commend Mr. Mackay for giving the people this refreshing glimpse of politics as he is. We think, too, that he "could have known the late Lew Shank, several times Mayor of Indianapolis. The statesman from the Quaker capital would have found in the Hoosier a sympathetic soul, indeed. Once, while addressing a woman's club, Shank remarked that when he was running for Mayor he didn't offer money for support. He didn't have any money, he admitted. He just offered jobs to everybody who wanted them, and soon found, he declared, that he got plenty of help.

By all means, let us have more Shanks and Mackays. Since we must have politicians, let them be frank.

If the moonshiners over in Illinois did not have Horseshoe Lake they would have to dig something of the sort to put their dead in.

WILLIS VERSUS HEFLIN.

From the Dayton News.

REPRESENTATIVE THEODORE E. BURTON of Cleveland is quoted by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch with the announcement that Senator Frank B. Willis of this State will be a candidate for the presidential nomination of his party. The Post-Dispatch insists on thinking that Mr. Burton is kidding.

The Post-Dispatch remembers that Senator Willis wrote the Senate resolution whitewashing Truman Newberry, a resolution which no Senate in all American history had so much reason later to regret. It was Senator Willis, also, as the St. Louis paper remembers, who put forth on a certain gloomy day that famous dictum that "Harry Daugherty is clean as a hound's tooth." To have the author of that historical statement a candidate for President contemporaneously with the recent Supreme Court decision in the oil lease cases and of the Fall-Sinclair trial in Washington, strikes the Post-Dispatch as too incongruous for aught but a comic opera setting.

But why, we ask the grinning Post-Dispatch, should any man be forestalled from standing by his guns? A real friend is a man who sticks to his friends through thick and thin. If Senator Willis wants to stand forth proudly as a candidate for President on his record as the man who painted the halo for Newberry and sang the hound's tooth psalm to Daugherty, is not this his loyal and proper privilege? The levity of the Post-Dispatch is superfluous. This is a solemn occasion.

It is seldom, however, that the Post-Dispatch says anything which we cannot in some part approve. When it suggests that the Democrats bring out Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama to match and mate the Senator Willis candidacy in Ohio, we return instantaneously to our characteristic habit of agreement with the Post-Dispatch. That suggestion is a serious and appropriate one, as befits so fearful an occasion as this.

NO HELP.

From the Omaha World-Herald.

NOT one iota of the evidence which resulted in saving the oil lands for the American people was produced by President Coolidge, by his Attorney-General or by one acting for him. On the other hand, the effort to get at the facts met with coldness and contempt from every Administration quarter, and everything possible was done to frustrate it. Had it not been for the courage and devotion of the Democrats and insurgents in the Senate Doherty and Sinclair would today be in unchallenged possession of hundreds of millions of the public property, gained by bribery and corruption, and Fall and Daugherty would have continued to occupy the high positions they disgraced.

These are the cold and unpatriotic facts. Guilt, it is true, is personal, not partisan, and dishonesty and faithlessness are confined to no one political party. But on the clear face of the record it is the height of impudence for the Republican party to try to take credit for the exposure of the oil scandal and the recovery of the stolen property.

NOBILITY TURNS TO RANCHES.

From McClure's Magazine.

THE Prince of Wales' purchase of his ranch in 1919 started a migration of titled European youth to Alberta which is making nobility almost as common as native Indians around the Calgary railroad station.

This noble migration has become so marked that one peer, Lord Rodney, has bought a 700-acre ranch at Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, where he and Lady Rodney have opened a school of ranching for the titled heads of Europe.

Among their present pupils who are taking a two-year course and living in a house like the hired hands are: S. A. R. Prince Charles Philippe d'Orleans, the young duke of Luxembourg, Lord Montagu, the Hon. John Stanley and the Hon. Philip Stanier.

A few miles from Lord Rodney's ranch the crown prince of Denmark runs a large dairy farm from which he now ships tons of butter to Europe annually. Twelve miles west of Calgary Prince d'Abro of Italy has one of the biggest cattle ranches in Southern Alberta. Lord Minto, Count DeForas and Count DeRoussay are his neighbors.

WHAT AUTO DRIVERS SHOULD KNOW.

DR. HARLAN C. HINES in the November Scribner's.

CERTAINLY the automobile is developing in America a new type of mentality. The real danger lies in the fact that our habits of confused thinking may become habitual. If they do, there are indications that the other half of the population who expect to take up driving will not be with us long enough to make the down payment. And what can be done about it? How can we help the man in the car just ahead of us drive with a little more sanity? If he is intentionally reckless or drunk, we are pretty well agreed upon the punishment to be meted out; but if he is just one of these average drivers who are causing such a high per cent of our traffic troubles, how can we get across to him that his deprecations must cease. His vagaries are the result either of bad habits he has formed or of his failure to form enough good habits. More emphasis on his driving education seems to be the only way out and, if this is carefully planned, it is certain to include the knowledge that: No man ever reaches a state of perfection in driving; that no automobile may be so perfect that it get a person out of all driving difficulties; that it is extremely dangerous to attempt to drive while angry; that a knowledge of what makes the car go and what makes it stop when it refuses to go is a form of life insurance; that no two experienced drivers are likely to be identical; that driving while sleepy, ill, or fatigued is an uncertain occupation; that there is no knowing what the other fellow will decide to do, since he will continue to have his moments of irrational and indiscriminate thinking; and, for this reason, driving an automobile demands vigilance and constant caution.

Forsooth! an officer of the law an Adonis that he should do that? A mustache helps a respect that no one feels in the case of a clean shave. Poets, philosophers, politicians and policemen should not shave. Only this will crime be banished!

Unrestrained
He-ness

MEN WITHOUT WOMEN. By Ernest Hemingway. (Scribner's.) FIFTEEN years ago an astute publisher remarked to a young fiction writer, who was beginning to attract some attention among the better class of readers: "Your stories are written for men, whereas it is the women who constitute by far the greater portion of the reading public." The idea was that, in order to achieve the maximum of "success" in the minimum of time, a writer "in the line" of the feminine public in mind. That the feminine public has been proven over and over since then, and surely the nature of the proof has not been flattering to the superior women who, though numerous, are naturally in the minority.

But there has been a great change in the general feminine attitude since the war, and one aspect of the change seems to be concerned with a desire to imitate some of the more superficial characteristics of masculinity. This change may explain the popular success of certain excessively "manly" books of the "day-books" which play up, with vulgar exaggeration, the lowest levels of the male consciousness.

Here we have a book that is frankly entitled "Men Without Women." It is by a celebrated author and its popular success is a foregone conclusion. As the title suggests, the 13 stories and sketches in this collection are concerned with the womanless wastes of human life where men exist without their essential he-ness without restraint. Perhaps its success will be due less to whatever intrinsic merit it may have as literature than to morbid curiosity and a rather debased conception of life.

Happily, the first tale is a remarkably vivid piece of writing. It is the already well-known description of a bull fight in Spain—the last fight of a luckless matador who has lost his grip. We do not for this one tale, which constitutes one-fourth of the book, the collection would be nothing to speak of, though it would probably sell just the same. The other pieces are, at best, scarcely more than sketches and they run in general, on a level of bestiality as, for instance, in "The Killers" which sets forth how a pair of thugs lay in wait to murder a man, grabbing after the manner of the while—just that and no more. Another sketch, "Fifty Grand," is concerned with a prize fight, and is neither more nor less significant than any other report of a similar event. Another, called "A Funny Place," records the talk of a don friend who is evidently in a very bad way.

The first tale is no less brilliant in detail than the less successful sketches; but it is nevertheless a worthy piece of work, because

MORE MODERN OPERAS
FOR MUNICIPAL SEASON

Directors of the Theater Association Discuss Works for Next Summer.

Next summer's repertory at the Municipal Theater should be confined to the more modern type of opera, directors of the Municipal Theater Association agreed yesterday, in a meeting at their meeting at Hotel Jefferson.

In advocating that the summer bill for 1928 contain the new works, several of the directors stressed the success of the new plays as "The Song of the Flame" during the past season, showing the preference of the public. Consideration of the reports and cast will be begun later this month by the Executive Production Committee.

Next summer will be the tenth consecutive season to be given the Forest Park theater. At a meeting yesterday the directors elected the following officers for the coming year: Former Mayor Kiel, president; Morton May, vice president; F. W. A. Voss, second vice president; Carl F. Meyer, third vice president; W. B. Weisenburger, treasurer; Mona B. Crutcher, secretary.

The personnel of the Executive Productions Committee include Harry L. Salisbury, M. E. Holden, Nelson Cuniff, Thomas Lovelace, Joseph G. Miller, Fred Pape, Otto E. Hugg, Arthur St. Charles and M. SMITH REPLIES TO ATTACK MADE BY COL. ROOSEVELT

New York Governor Calls Assault on Democratic Regime "Rash and Foolish Statements."

ANSWERS WITH COUNTER CHARGES

State Executive Asserts Republican Clubhouses Hired Gunmen for Protection.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—With a challenge that evidence be produced to substantiate charges of vice in the County in which New York's capital is located, Gov. Alfred E. Smith struck back at Col. Theodore Roosevelt in a statement published yesterday. The Governor termed charges by the Colonel "rash and foolish."

In speeches before the Republican State convention at Rochester and in this city, Roosevelt had attacked Tammany Hall as corrupt and blamed Tammany and the Governor for conditions in Albany. "Col. Roosevelt has little interest in the welfare of the State of New York when at the height of a campaign for constitutional amendments he uses up the time of the public to make a personal attack upon me," said the Governor.

One of the amendments the Governor referred to provides for the election of Governors in presidential years, a measure fostered by the Republicans and similar to one recently defeated in New Jersey. Smith said that Roosevelt "is entirely without understanding of the State's fiscal system."

"You made some rash and foolish statements that were bitterly criticized by the press of the country and by members of your own party," he said.

Reply Made Caustic.

"Why don't you try to render a real service to the State?" the Governor asked in conclusion. "Talk about the pending constitutional amendments, no matter which side of the question you take. You will at least be stirring up public interest in the real issue of the campaign. And quit the job of trying to pull the red-hot political chestnuts out of the fire for the discredited leaders of your old, broken-down, dilapidated, corrupt Republican machine."

The Governor freely admitted the truth of Roosevelt's charges on gambling in Democratic clubhouses and the police raids that uncovered it. "That is true," he said, "the raids were directed by a police commissioner who was appointed from my Cabinet by the Mayor of the city. But I did not hear you say anything about the raids made on Republican clubhouses for open gambling and the police raids that uncovered it."

Opposed to Gambling.
"Bear in mind, Colonel, that I am just as much opposed to gambling as you are. But while we are talking about it let's be truthful."

Smith denied a statement of Roosevelt that he had investigated Republican counties and failed to investigate Democratic ones. He had no power, the Governor said, to investigate any counties; all he could do was to order investigation of county officers against whom charges had been made, and this had been his procedure in every case.

He then mentioned "the situation that you complain of in Albany." "You are unfair enough in your ignorance of the situation," said the Governor, "to try to lead the people to believe that there was something I could do in Albany County that I did not do."

No Charges Were Filed.
"No charges were filed with me against any official in Albany County."

"If you have any information about official neglect on the part of officials of Albany County and will file charges with me in proper form as required by statute, I will proceed against them as a Governor should proceed, exactly as I proceeded in all other cases where complaints were properly filed."

"In the meantime, please do not insult the intelligence of the people of the State by attempting to lead them to believe that the Governor is a policeman and should be out patrolling his police every night looking for violators of the law."

WANTS ALL CITY EMPLOYEES UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

Bureau of Municipal Research Finds Only 49 Per Cent at Present in That Classification.

The Bureau of Municipal Research, a voluntary body of citizens which, from time to time, surveys city departments in the interest of improved municipal government, has published the results of a scrutiny of civil service among city employees as conducted by the Efficiency Board. The report emphasizes the following facts and criticisms:

As between the present and former city administration, there has been little difference in the changes of the city employee personnel.

Fifty-one per cent of the 15,200 persons employed by the city are exempt from the rules of civil service, notably among the police, schools, courts, Recorder of Deeds, Collector, Art Museum, Library, Zoo, Treasurer and License Collector. It is recommended that except for the police and schools, which have merit systems of their own, all other employees be brought under civil service.

The city charter specifies as to salaries that the city shall pay the prevailing wage. The bureau asserts that its investigation disclosed that the city was paying a higher rate than private business for many positions. In the trades, the union scale is paid.

The provisions of the charter for reasonable regulations affecting promotions has been almost totally ignored. The Bureau thinks that an adequate schedule for promotions should be devised and examination should be given for all vacancies to be filled by promotion.

Rules require that appointments under civil service shall be made from the three highest names upon a list certified as most capable by the Efficiency Board. Though it is declared by the board that it does not permit any officer with appointive power to reject all three and call for a second certification of three, there is opportunity for serious abuse of the merit system in this respect. There has been actual abuse in several instances where temporary appointments have been carried over for more than the 60-day limit.

The bureau believes that the Efficiency Board should expand to the extent of providing uniform working conditions so far as possible with respect to hours of employment, vacations, holidays, leaves of absence and sick leaves; the establishment of standard policies with respect to other working conditions, health and safety, and passing upon cases of dismissal to see that no injustice has been done. It is declared that the charter provides the necessary authority for this expansion.

With respect to the first fact, the report declares: "A comparison of the last two years of the former administration with the two years of the present administration shows that: The number of persons discharged increased from 486 to 541 or 10 per cent; the number of resignations decreased from 3403 to 3000 or 12 per cent; the number laid off increased from 1626 to 2032 or 25 per cent. The total number of employees increased from 6981 at the close of the fiscal year in April, 1925, to 7216 at the close of the fiscal year in April, 1927.

The bureau finds that there are now 181 officers and employees in the unclassified service, which, in effect exempts them from control of the Efficiency Board. "No doubt," it remarks, "there are a number of appointive offices which should be exempt from civil service, but there are two janitors, more than 30 stenographers and several clerks now classified list. Such positions should be filled by competitive examination."

NEU DENOUNCES 'RECKLESS USE OF NAMES' IN INQUIRY

Service Car Men Have Done Irreparable Injury to Waldman and Himself, Alderman Says.

TO MAKE REPORT
WITHIN 2 WEEKS

Review Being Prepared by Attorney, Who Requires
10 Days—Committee to Pass on Findings.

The special investigating committee of the Board of Aldermen will report to the board within two weeks on its inquiry, concluded yesterday, into the service car drivers' escrow agreement, by which a fund of $300, intended to be increased to $1200, was to be paid to Mort Rosenblatt, son-in-law of Alderman Herman C. Waldman, for "certain services in obtaining certain legislation."

A review of the testimony is being prepared by Oliver T. Remmers, attorney for Waldman, who has asked 10 days for the work. The committee, at its next meeting, will receive his document, and will consider the finding. It has power to recommend a verdict of exoneration, a verdict of censure, or expulsion of a member from the board. The entire board decides on the verdict.

Alderman John Neu Jr., who acted for a time as attorney for the present St. Louis Service Car Drivers' Association, and whose name has been brought into the inquiry, made a statement just before adjournment of the fifth and final inquiry session yesterday. He denounced the "reckless use of names," both his own name and Waldman's, by the service car men who have testified.

Says He Was Counsel Only.
"There has been nothing shown to link my name with any slush fund," Neu declared. "I was employed as counsel only to draft a constitution and bylaws, and had nothing to do with any legislation. "This whole thing," continued Neu, "grew out of factional fights among the drivers. They have been reckless in their use of names, making statements that could not be proved. They have done irreparable injury to both Mr. Waldman and me. Our names have been handled about recklessly. These men have shown the mentality of children, in their irresponsible talk and repetition of mere hearsay. Andrew Uttendorfer's use of my name was mere hearsay."

"After having read such headlines as 'Neu Involved in Service Car Slush Fund Inquiry,' I hope that when the verdict of exoneration comes, as it must come, it will get the same publicity."

Neu's comments on the drivers' "reckless" testimony, it was remarked by those who have sat through the hearings, did not apply to one of the witnesses, George Keller, representative of the old Green Cross drivers' organization, and one of the signers of the escrow agreement. Keller, the key man of the inquiry, told very little, and denied any acquaintance with Waldman, or even that he knew of the family connection between Waldman and Rosenblatt at the time the agreement with Rosenblatt was made in May. He also denied having enough to obtain legislation. H. G. Cohen, lawyer, who drew the agreement, has testified that he used the word "legislation" by inadvertence, when he meant "regulation."

near Hoffman. He believed service car drivers were careless in some cases, and needed regulation in the interest of safety. Alderman Waldman then quoted, and denied emphatically, the charge of Andrew Uttendorfer, a driver, that his name was on some agreement for legislation. He told of the inquiry into the escrow agreement, and the making public of the agreement held by the Na-

TESTIMONY COMPLETED IN 4 HANDLAN SUITS

One Deposition to Be Taken, Then Litigation Goes Under Advisement.

Testimony has been completed before Circuit Judge Hartmann in four suits affecting the trust estate of Alexander H. Handlan, president of the Handlan-Buck Manufacturing Co., who died in 1921, leaving an estate estimated at $1,800,000, in trust for the benefit of three sons and four daughters.

One son, Eugene W. Handlan, is ill in Arkansas. His deposition will be taken before Nov. 15, when the court will take the litigation under advisement.

Three suits, filed by three daughters, Mrs. Lillian Lemp, Mrs. Vella Ishee and Mrs. Kathryn Traut, asked that the will be construed and made charges of discrimination, hostility and mismanagement against the trustees—their brothers, Alexander H. Handlan Jr., Eugene W. and Edward R. Handlan. The charges were denied. The fourth daughter, Mrs. Henry T. Hornsby, appeared as a witness. All suits were tried jointly.

One allegation made was that the trustees had failed to dispose of unproductive real estate. The trustees answered that they were following their father's practice of holding real estate which had great potential value. The estate's realty includes the old Handlan Park, at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue, the old Handlan residence at Grand and West Pine boulevard, Texas oil properties and Missouri mine lands.

The fourth suit against the trustees was filed by the Methudy Tire and Rubber Co., which has offered to buy the Grand-West Pine property for $100,000. The offer has not been accepted due to a legal question.

"RECKLESS USE OF NAMES" IN INQUIRY

tional City Bank, which proved to bear Rosenblatt's name, but not his.

"I never knew my son-in-law was in any agreement with the drivers," Waldman testified. "I knew he made loans to some of the drivers (Rosenblatt is in the automobile mortgage business), but the matter of legislation was not discussed between us."

President Neun of the Board of Aldermen questioned Waldman as to whether Rosenblatt knew of his intention to introduce a bill. Waldman said he thought not.

"You spoke of investigating the drivers' conditions," Neun said. "Where did you meet them?"

"I met five of them in Rosenblatt's office about a year ago," Waldman said. "There was some talk about conditions. It is possible," Waldman continued, "that Rosenblatt knew. I was going to introduce a bill some time, but he did not know when or what would be in it."

Reading to him the requirement from the escrow agreement, that Rosenblatt was "to perform certain services in obtaining certain legislation," Neun asked Waldman if it meant anything to him.

"It doesn't refer to anything that I had a hand in," the alderman replied. He said the agreement, when he first read it recently, was "saddeningly disappointing" to him.

"Were you to get money for putting this measure through?" was the direct question asked of Waldman by Associate City Counselor Field.

"Not that I know of," was the reply.

The fact that Waldman introduced his bill June 4, soon after the filing of the agreement in May, was brought up. Attorney Remmers then called attention to the fact that the escrow agreement called for legislation to be obtained within 90 days from its date, May 5.

Remmers Asks About Bill.

"Did you make any immediate effort to push your bill after introducing it?" he asked Waldman. "Did you push it during the summer? Did you do anything to further it within the 90 days after May 5, or even the 90 days after you introduced it?"

Waldman replied in the negative, saying he did not push the measure actively until last month. Remmers declared that showed Waldman had not been trying to fulfill the condition of the agreement. The money was withdrawn from the National City Bank by the drivers June 27, and was returned to those who had contributed it.

W. C. Hilmer and L. E. Dempster, employees of the National City

Bank, testified they knew of only one agreement, the one made public when the present inquiry began. Other witnesses were Nathan Klein, a driver, who told of having heard discussion in which the names of Waldman and Neu were mentioned; E. W. Zanzow, a tire dealer, and Frank X. Hardy, secretary to the president of the board.

Kroger Coffee

"Of all the blasted cranks I've ever seen..."

...that fellow is the worst," said a salesman of B. H. Kroger. Perhaps in all the world there is no more particular buyer.

And Mr. Kroger admits that he's a crank. He says that if a crank is one who knows exactly what he wants, and insists and persists until he gets it, you can call him the biggest crank in town.

Is it any wonder Kroger Stores have a reputation for selling good coffee... and for satisfying people who are, perhaps, cranks on coffee themselves? He buys the best coffee berries in large quantities. They come direct from the plantation to his warehouses. He does the blending, roasting and testing. Stores receive a new supply frequently each week... assuring absolute freshness.

Of the three distinct brands sold, each is a coffee of distinction... a coffee of unusual merit and value.

ACQUITTED OF AUTO KILLING

Joseph King, 19, Found Not Guilty of Manslaughter.
Joseph King, 19 years old, 4255 North Twenty-first street, was freed yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Pearey's court of a manslaughter charge growing out of an auto accident in which King's automobile struck Bernard Schultz, 52, of 3440 South Main street, at Broadway and President street on May 16 last.

King told the jury that Schultz stepped directly into the path of his automobile and that the accident was unavoidable.

NEW ZINC STRIKES NEAR AURORA, MO.

High Grade Ore Is Reported Discovered in Two Test Holes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AURORA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Mining stock in the vicinity of Aurora took another leap with the discovery that the recent strike at Lenhard Orchard, near here, extends at least 420 feet toward the Arrow mine. The discovery was made by Senator Larry Brunk and Sam E. Loy, who drilled a number of holes on the land in 1927. Loy struck it rich in 1917 but because of the big ore slump, no sinking was done. The hole he drilled is 420 feet from the recent drill strike. In line with it, 240 feet from the Loy drill, is a hole drilled by Senator Brunk, in which he found the high-grade ore. Both Brunk and Loy declare that their respective test holes produced the highest grade ore, while the recent strike tested by Warring and Williams showed 17.70 per cent zinc.

Testing Old Holes.
Aurora believes it has made a remarkable zinc strike and that the town will come back as a mining center. The chief trouble at present is prices. Zinc is $100 a ton lower than it was during the war, but conditions were abnormal then. With the recent zinc strikes near this city, various other old drill holes are being tested once more, and reports indicate lead and zinc are very much in evidence.

Prospectors are interested keenly in a strip of land four miles south of Marionville and five miles west of Billings that years ago was the center of activity. This strip of land is a portion of a 330-acre farm owned by F. M. Sullivan of Springfield, son of the late Senator W. P. Sullivan, who, for sentimental reasons, has barred all prospectors from the farm.

Sullivan Bars Tests.
Numerous test holes dot a portion of the Sullivan estate, which lies along the Lawrence County line, just across in Stone County. It is the first section across from Christian County and corners with Lawrence County.

Years ago indications of ore were found on this tract, which was then owned by the Middle Springs Mining and Investment Co. Senator Sullivan purchased the property from that company before any shafts were put down.

Since the death of his father two years ago, Sullivan has refused to allow mining companies to lean out the drill holes on his farm and make further tests. He has had some of the holes cleaned out and converted into wells to water livestock on his farm.

A. H. HILLIKER CLEARED OF FALSE PRETENSE CHARGE

American Home Life Association Had Alleged Memberships He Obtained Were Not Bona Fide.

A jury in Circuit Judge Killgore's court yesterday acquitted Arthur H. Hilliker of 3843 Polson avenue of obtaining $175 by false pretenses.

It was alleged he had obtained the money from his employer, the American Home Life Association, 1504 South Grand boulevard, by representing falsely that he had sold 70 applications for membership, for which he was entitled to a fee of $2.50 each. Hilliker testified the applications were bona fide orders, while officers of the company declared they were not.

Acquitted of Manslaughter.
A jury in Circuit Judge Pearey's court yesterday acquitted Oscar Brickley, Negro, of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of Robert Wilson, Negro, in a saloon at Second and Valentine streets, April 2. Brickley pleaded self-defense.

WASHINGTON DEPARTS FOR NORMAN AFTER LIGHT WORKOUT TODAY

HARNETT MAY BE UNABLE TO FACE SOONERS

Halfback Suffers Hip Injury in Practice—Squad of 26 Players to Make Trip.

By J. Roy Stockton.
Washington University's football machine which still can make the season a triumphant one by bowing over the Oklahoma Sooners, Grinnell and St. Louis University, will go through a light workout this afternoon to limber up the muscles. This evening the squad, 26 strong, will depart for Norman, Ok., to oppose the Sooners Saturday.

In these days of open football, where a mere advantage in beef, speed and driving power does not always mean a victory, it is impossible to forecast accurately the outcome of any game and with a team like the Bears it is particularly difficult to prognosticate. If the team plays as it did against Westminster, the Sooners will win by two or three touchdowns. But if the Bears suddenly are fired by an unquenchable thirst for victory, Bob Higgins' machine may furnish another Valley upset by flattening the Oklahoma eleven.

The injury to Bud Harnett, which kept him on the sidelines yesterday in practice, will be a blow to the Bears' chances. If he is unfit for full time duty Saturday, but the club physician expects him to be ready for work today. Harnett, the biggest ball carrier on the squad and the nearest thing to a triple threat man on the roster, suffered a bruised hip in the rough scrimmage of Tuesday.

If Harnett is unable to start, the Bears will have a light backfield with Raydon taking his place. However Harnett's ability will be missed more than his beef.

New Play is Introduced.
Dummy scrimmage and a long session on the Varsity's repertoire of plays constituted the day's work. Much time was devoted to polishing the passing attack and one new play was introduced which was working well. Harding and Millard were snaring the ball cleverly, though in the dummy scrimmage too many passes were knocked down by the opposition to make the Varsity feel cocky over its aerial attack.

There seemed to be more snap to the workout than at previous sessions, but not enough to cause Coach Higgins to call for the band. The Varsity battle front was changed frequently, so that all the jobs are still open.

If Harnett is fit he will be of course will start against the Sooners at halfback, with Bickel at the other half. Axe at full and Millard at quarter. The reappearance of Harold Schimmers, who was called home by illness in his family a week ago, strengthened the line reserves, but because of his week's absence from classes he was not included in the list of players to make the trip to Norman, it being explained that the faculty might object to his thus prolonging his absence. However, he may be an added starter.

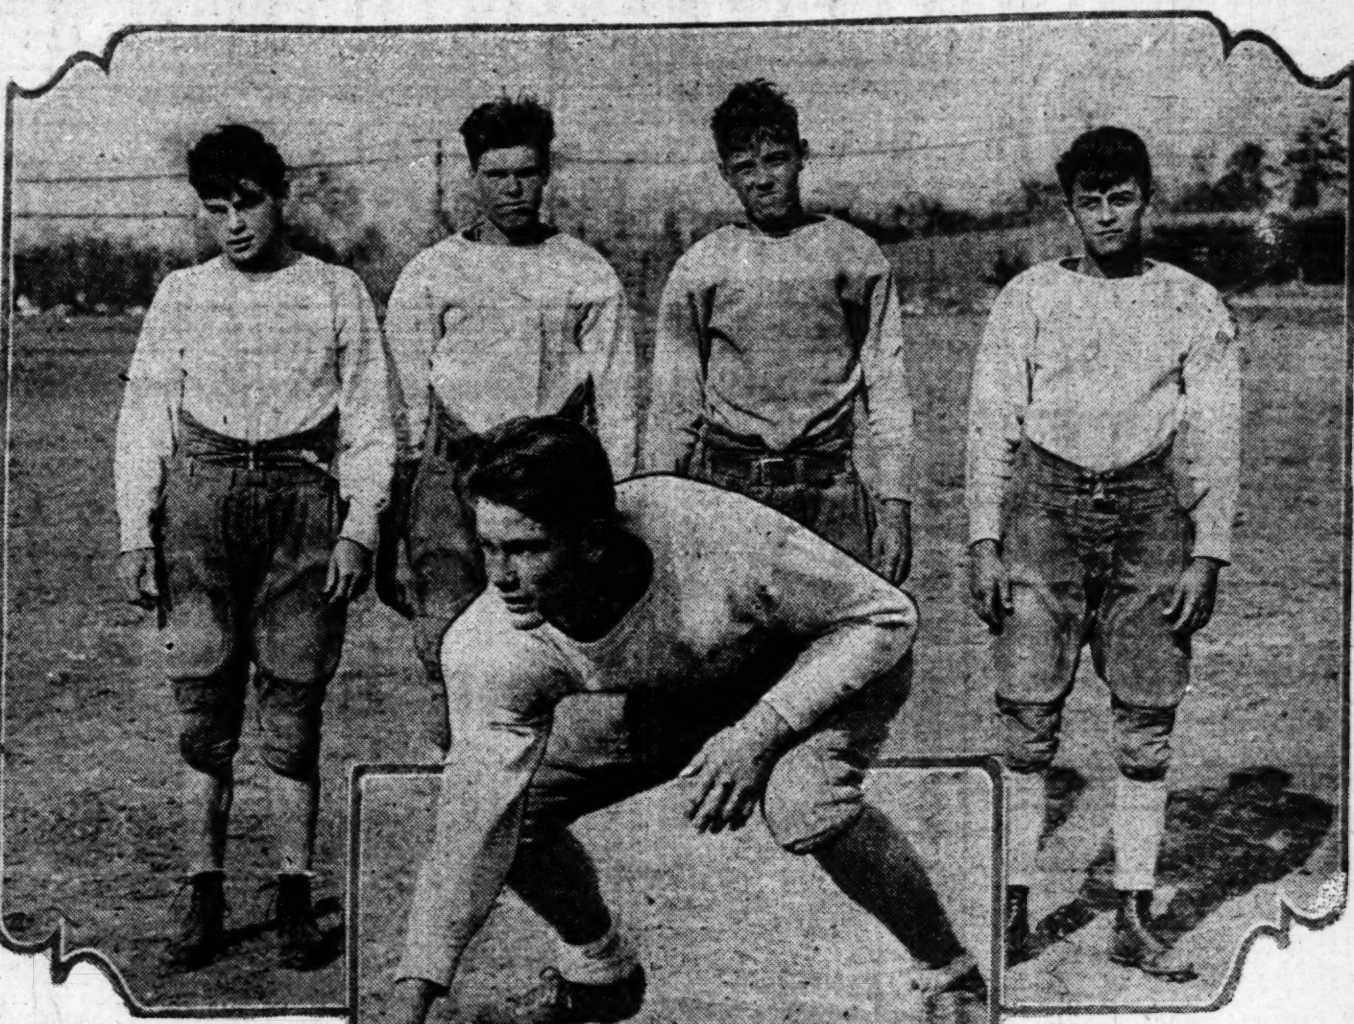

Higgins Picks Squad.
The list as announced by Coach Higgins includes McCarrill, Kurz, Libman, Glazner, Collins, Drake, Comstock, Paris, Kaplin, Hoffman, Jablonsky, Harnett, Schell, Dorr, Millard, Pickett, Harnett, Harding, Lehring, Axe, Oehlert, Whitler, Clinton and Rawdon. Coach Higgins, Assistant Coach Meyers, Dr. Smith and Manager Bruno will accompany the team.

Close followers of the Bears attribute their poor showing against Westminster and their recent lethargic efforts on the field in practice to a tendency to consider the Billikens game the only remaining contest of importance on the schedule. Frequently a team will focus attention on one big game of the year and all hopes for valley honors are gone if they are not as helpless and lifeless as they have appeared.

The strenuous scrimmage session of Tuesday appeared to have awakened the athletes and they ran through their plays yesterday as though they would relish a session with real enemies. The ball carriers ran low and hard. It was in striking contrast to their work during the early part of the previous day's scrimmage, when one player actually apologized to a freshman for hitting him a bit roughly with a stiff arm.

Point Out Mistakes.
However, the coaches still were busy pointing out mistakes and flaws in the plays. Even the most simple plays can carry an element of deception if every man does his part and in this respect the players were not doing so well. The man looking for a pass told the world that he was to be the target

Five Reasons Why St. Louis U. High Team Leads the Prep League

Slattery Named To Lead Braves For 1928 Season

Former Harvard and Boston College Coach Selected by Owner Fuchs.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Nov. 3.—John T. Slattery, former big league star and more recently coach of Boston College, is to be Dave Bancroft's successor as manager of the Boston National League baseball team.

President Emil E. Fuchs in making the announcement expressed the belief that Slattery would bring new strength to the trailing Braves. The arrangement is for one year.

Slattery broke into big time baseball here 25 years ago as catcher for the Red Sox. From Boston he went to the White Sox and then to the St. Louis Cardinals and afterward to Washington Senators where he caught Walter Johnson when the latter was at his heyday.

He took to college coaching in 1916 when he guided Tufts College in his family's work. Slattery later served as head coach of the Harvard nine for five years and for three years has been at Boston College. For five years he has coached and scouted for the Braves.

SOONER STARTING LINEUP FOR GAME IS STILL DOUBTFUL
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NORMAN, Ok., Nov. 3.—In another long scrimmage session yesterday the University of Oklahoma eleven continued to polish up on the ground gaining tactics to be unleashed against the Washington Bears Saturday.

For the third successive afternoon Coach Lindsey drove his squad unmercifully against the freshmen, and a similar workout was due for today.

After Mayhew, Haskins, Crider and Ray LeCron had had more than an hour of passing and batting down aerial flaps in the Sooner backfield, reserves were sent in to continue the grind.

The Oklahoma pony backfield, consisting of Drake, quarterback; Carman and Taylor, halfbacks, and Short, fullback, showed up almost as effectively as the first string. This latter quartet may see service for at least a quarter of the Washington game, if intensive coaching of the past week can be taken as an indication.

Capt. Grady Norris, left tackle, who has been on the casualty list for two weeks, was on the field but did not get into the scrimmage. It is still doubtful whether or not he will be in shape to play against the Bears.

and the coaches were constantly harping on the wisdom of keeping the enemy in the dark as long as possible.

In a dummy scrimmage the lack of team work does not stand out as boldly as in a real combat with the scrubs, but it did appear that the backs were giving each other a bit more help in the plays.

Marquette's Forward Pass Expert, O'Keefe, May Not Play Against Billikens

All-Western Quarterback Is Injured but "Swede" Gebert, the Receiver of Long Tosses, and Scoring Ace, Is Ready for Game Here.

By Jack Alexander.
Rupert O'Keefe, all-Western quarterback, may watch from the bench as Marquette and St. Louis play at Sportsman's Park Saturday, but his running mate, "Swede" Gebert, will be in there. The forward passing combination of O'Keefe to Gebert is rated one of the best in the middle west and the success of their maneuvers said to rest more upon Gebert's uncanny ability to grab the ball than in O'Keefe's skill at throwing it.

Gebert is one of those players around whom hallowed tradition has cast its spell, aided by an active publicity agent. Like the Warner boys who developed their place-hitting ability by swinging at corn cobs, Gebert is said to have started on his pass-grabbing career as a youth in Merrill, Wis., where, in between studies and hours of meditation on how he would some day affect the destiny of Marquette, "Swede" was always getting boys to throw him in the run, over either shoulder.

Instead of heavy sweaters, blankets, mackinaws or the cowl sweater affected by most teams, the Milwaukeeans will be attired in ankle-length blue corduroy coats, with collars of sheepskin dyed gold, and a large block "M" also in gold, on the back. The coats are wool lined.

Whether the "Golden Avalanche" will travel in its special gilded coach, the gift of a friendly railroad, has not been announced.

Marquette players wear gold jerseys with blue bands on the arms. St. Louis U. has dispensed with the school colors of blue and white and now uses a red jersey and red headgear.

Gebert weighs 115 pounds or a few less than Capt. Joe Leary, who will start at fullback. Against Grinnell last week Gebert scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and was yanked for use in the St. Louis game.

Altogether there should be a spectacular exhibition of backfield work Saturday for Mathews at St. Louis U. has almost more backs than he needs. If he wants he can start off with the same group that started against Rolla and at any stage of the game replace the starters with another combination just as good.

Mathews said yesterday that he would probably open up with Tom Finn at quarter, Eddie Jordan and Joe Lintzsch at the halves and Syd Dirnberger at fullback. This would give him Jordan to pass, Flynn as a crack receiver, Dirnberger to plunge for a few yards at a time and Lintzsch to kick.

Two Sets of Backs.
With this group replaced by Jack Joyce, Bill Parilla, Whitey Decker and Eddie Field the change could hardly be noticed, excepting in the punting, as Lintzsch is a standout at this job. Capable substitutes could also be found in Bob Denver and Gil Kennedy and a few others who have not had much of

Mixed Twosome Golf Tourney Results in Tie

Miss Pep and Benny Richter Share Lead With Mrs. Rule and Dave Sutherland.

Miss Virginia Pep, former women's district golf champion, and Benny Richter, professional at the Triple A Club and the only left-handed professional golfer in this district, tied for low net score in the mixed twosome tournament held at Glen Echo Country Club course yesterday. Miss Pep and Richter turned in a 187 net total, but this figure was equaled by Mrs. J. E. Rule of Normandy and Dave Sutherland, the Westwood professional.

Jimmie Manion, district men's champion, took the prize for low medal score for men with a 70, and Miss Pep had the low score for the women with a 91.

The event met with such a response from the golfers that John Manion, Sunset Hills professional, sponsor of the tournament, will endeavor to hold two such events next season, one in the spring and another in the fall.

DOETZEL AND MAZER MATCHED ON AMATEUR FIGHT CARD, NOV. 10

Cliff Doetzel, Western A. A. U. flyweight champion, and Mickey Mazer of the Midgets A. C., have been matched for the feature bout on an amateur program next Thursday night at the South Broadway Athletic Club.

An effort is now being made to match Reggie Wood and Ralph Barreca for a special lightweight bout. John Schwake, Webster Groves heavy, will also appear if a capable opponent can be found.

All amateurs desiring to appear on the program may file application with the South Broadway Athletic Club.

Hockey Player Sold.

By the Associated Press.
TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3.—Corbett Donnelly, forward on last season's Saskatoon club of the Western Canada Hockey League, has been sold to the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. He is regarded as a good goal-getter and is fast and tricky.

tackle of the squad. Latest advice from Milwaukee says that while these men will not start, they may be used if the tide of battle goes against Marquette. The Billikens can whip their weight in wildcats when they're right.

Marquette is due to arrive tomorrow morning about 9 o'clock.

M'BRIDE ELEVEN MAY STOP DRIVE OF ST. L. U. HIGH

Coach Kamp's Team Is Undeclared in Prep School Race; Tomorrow's Game at New Stadium.

By Gerald Holland.
The St. Louis University High School football team will seek its fourth preparatory league victory tomorrow afternoon in the Public High School stadium when the Junior Billikens face Coach Toddy Kamp's McBride eleven. Starting time is 3 o'clock.

Ed McCarty's St. Louis eleven now leads the league race with three victories and no defeats. McBride shares third place with Christian Brothers High, having won one game and tied two. The Collonaders are likely to give the league-leading team its most difficult test so far. With the exception of a 12-3 defeat: C. B. C. last week, the Junior Billikens' victories have been won from the weakest teams in the league. Country Day was beaten 13 to 6, and Chaminade offered stubborn resistance before bowing, 7 to 0.

Consistent Improvement.
McBride has shown consistent improvement since the season opened. Kamp's eleven opened the season by outgunning the opposition and barely missing a touchdown in holding C. B. C. to a scoreless tie. The Collonaders followed by trimming Country Day 12 to 2, and last Saturday played the heavier Western Military Academy eleven to a 0-0 decision in a game at Alton.

Both teams are in good shape for the battle and have not been weakened by injuries. "Red" Hemp of St. Louis was inactive for a few days after the C. B. C. victory but the valuable quarterback is in good shape again and will start the game.

Tomorrow's game will be the first to be played in the new stadium other than Public High School League games. It is McBride's home game.

Probable Lineups:
St. Louis. McBride. Lawler. L. E. Boland. Eynatten (C). O'Connor (C). Lewis. J. G. Daugherty. Jordan. C. T. McDonough. Krieger. R. E. Carter. Knice. R. T. Randazzo. Pals. R. E. Meyer. Hemp. Q. B. Kunze. Flannery. F. H. Kelly. Bromschweig. Chapman. Rosmer. R. H. Giesler.

HELEN WILLS TO APPEAR IN AMATEUR FOLLIES PRODUCTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Helen Wills, women's tennis champion, today followed her aspirations to appear in a new role—that of star, ingenue, or even chorus girl in the coming Junior League Follies here.

Ned Wayburn, theatrical producer staging this year's show, told Miss Wills to appear today with the other aspirants for places in the cast.

Y. M. H. A. ELEVEN TO PLAY SCOTT FIELD

The Y. M. H. A. football team will go to Scott Field Sunday to play the Alhambra team. The game is called for 1:30 o'clock. The tentative Y. M. H. A. lineup follows: Left end, Haffner; left tackle, Pascover; left guard, Linder; center, Bettman; right guard, Sommer; right tackle, Glaser; right end, Goorman; Quarterback, G. Kessler; left halfback, Sarason; right halfback, Lorber; and fullback, Levy.

Helstein, St. Louis Boxer, Scores 19th Straight Victory

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 3. JOHNNY HELSTEIN, graduate of the South Broadway A. C. in St. Louis, scored his nineteenth consecutive ring victory here last night when he outpointed Giovanni Salerno, featherweight champion of Italy.

Helstein recently scored a point victory over Chick Suggs, the New Bedford Negro, one of the toughest featherweights in the game.

Westhus Victor In Billiard Match

Defeats Goessling in Red Ball Tourney—Whitney Wins From Mills.

Bud Westhus, former St. Louis University football player and coach of the Lorelei swimming team, is making rapid strides in the billiard game. He is regarded as one of the outstanding favorites to win the red ball championship tournament being conducted at Peterson's and it is probable that he will be a serious contender for the city amateur three-cushion championship when the tournament is held later in the winter.

Westhus last night defeated Gus Goessling in a red ball tournament match, 50 to 38, in 40 innings. He had runs of 4, 4, 6 and he ran out with a run of 7. Goessling, a good shot maker, ran Westhus a close race until Bud reached the 40 mark.

F. E. Whitney won from B. Mills, 50 to 27, in 29 innings.

Dr. L. P. Macklin, who will defend his American Amateur Association three-cushion championship against the challenge of Dr. L. W. Harris of Chicago in a 150-point match here next Monday and Tuesday, started his special practice drill yesterday at Peterson's. He will be in daily training for the blue practice at Alton under direction of Al Star, star of Washington U.

ST. CHARLES KIRKWOOD IN LEAGUE

Both Contenders for County High School League Race—St. Charles After Third Victory.

St. Louis High and St. Charles meet tomorrow afternoon in the county high school league race. St. Charles now shares the lead in the league race with St. Louis, having won two games and tied one. Coach Schenck's team still has a chance to nab the pleasured for the title by its three remaining games.

A defeat for St. Charles tomorrow will definitely eliminate the team as a title contender. Winning Kirkwood retains the ability of a tie for the title, but the latter would have to win its remaining games while St. Louis would have to defeat St. Charles to give Lyons' eleven a shot in the championship.

ST. LOUIS BLUES PLAY PEORIA HERE SAT.

The St. Louis Blues, professional football team, have been scheduled for Sunday at Peoria, Ill., to play the Peoria team at Compton avenue and Main street. A recent addition to the of the Blues is Paulson, former star Minnesota tackle, who has been secured with the local team of the Blues. Since his return from Peoria, where he played with the Packers of the National Football League, Paulson has been in the blue practice at Alton under direction of Al Star, star of Washington U.

BARNARD FORMER INDIAN LEADER ELECTED FOR THREE YEARS

Asserts Circuit's Present Strength Is Largely Due to His Predecessor's Demand for Clean Conduct.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—In vivid contrast to the beginning of his predecessor's long reign, Ernest Barnett today started his first year as president and treasurer of the American League surrounded by friendship, co-operation and prosperity.

Unlike the former "Czar" of the junior circuit, Ban Johnson, who renovated a poorly-paying Western league into the American League in 1900 at a shaky salary of $5000 a year and amidst threats of ruin from the haughty National League, Barnett began office with a three-year contract at a salary understood to be $40,000 a year and with the well wishes of those who control professional baseball in America.

It's All Different Now.

When Johnson and his coterie of adventures started the American League, it was the National circuit that owned the bigger parks and the contracts for baseball's greatest satellites. Today, the American League sports the largest parks, the world championship and probably the greatest drawing card since baseball began—Babe Ruth.

Like Johnson, the new president is a former Ohio newspaper sports editor and, in accepting the league presidency after a unanimous vote by the league's board of directors yesterday, Barnett promised to adhere to the "Czar's" general principles.

"The American League has a rich inheritance in the high ideals created for it by a great leader," he said, "and the organization must keep these ideals constantly in mind as a guide to the successful conduct of its affairs. The rise of the American League to its present strength and influence has been largely due to Mr. Johnson's demand for clean, sportsmanlike conduct on the playing field and his vigorous handling of every situation that menaced the integrity of the sport. I have always been in thorough accord with these principles and as long as I am head of the American League, there will be no change in this general policy."

Harridge League Secretary.

The new president is 53 years old and a former football coach. He went to the Cleveland Baseball Club as secretary in March, 1903, and has since been with the organization as vice president, business manager and finally president. He still holds the latter title as the sale of the Cleveland Club to a group of millionaires had not been completed today. However, he has handed in his resignation and will dispose of his stock, an action necessary to serve as American League president.

William Harridge for 15 years private secretary to Johnson, was appointed secretary of the league, a newly created position. His contract also runs for three years.

Dundee Defends Honors Against Hudkins Tonight

$100,000 Gate Expected for Welter Championship Bout at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—A blood-thirsty youth of 22, Art Dundee, long ranked among the top notchers and although possessing a record encompassing seven years within the pugilistic ring, tonight will have his first fling at a world's championship. The youth, who came here three years ago from Nebraska, and who, known to challenge the right of Joe Dundee, Baltimore Italian, to the welterweight title, the latter secured a few months ago from Feta Lison, the Scranton miner. The bout is scheduled to go 10 rounds.

Little Gypsy, bar hustled, drew clear after first quarter, raced into good lead but fired in drive and was outclassed. Walter Hagen, who had been close up and making fast finish, was racing best at last. Bob Johnston closed to make a bid and held on strongly. Dottie, who had been in the lead, was handling gear in gradually in stretch. Little Thought, not much around. STOCK LIST AGAIN BEST LATE IN DAY

Conditions in Market Considered Largely Responsible for Upturn in Prices—Increase in Exchange Members Loans During October.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The recovery in stock prices was carried further today, although the upward movement was by no means uniform. As on yesterday, the best prices of the day were generally recorded in the last few minutes of trading, gains of 1 to 5 points being fairly widely distributed, with a few larger ones scattered throughout the list. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000 share mark for the first time this week.

While most observers were agreed that the price movement was determined largely by conditions within rather than without the market, the bullish sentiment undoubtedly was created by the ease of money rates, stiffening export copper prices and suggestions that the Treasury Department would advocate changes in the revenue act which probably would lead to a further distribution of huge undivided surpluses by large corporations.

In view of the sharp decline in stock prices last month, some surprise was shown in the increase of $21,509,804 in Stock Exchange member loans during October, bringing the total to the record-breaking figure of $2,946,177,774, which was made public after the close of the market. The weekly Federal reserve statement on brokers' loans showed a total of $2,371,785,000, an increase of $27,238,000 above that of the preceding week.

Steel and Motor Up.
U. S. Steel common and General Motors were again prominent in the upturn. Steel showing a net gain of 2 points at 135 1/2 and Motors closing 1 1/2 points higher at 131 1/2. Most of the other steels and motors also showed moderate improvement. Hupp crossing 25 to a new 1927 high and then losing all but a fraction of its gain by dropping back to 24.

Recent accumulation of the American Tobacco issues has been based on reports of record-breaking cigarette sales and steadily expanding earnings leading to hopes of special dividend distributions next year. Rubbers held fairly firm in the face of an extension of recent price reductions. Oils were again in steady demand, with Associated, Atlantic Refining, Marland, Lago, Standard of New York and Houston prominent in the advance. Buying of these shares reflected a more cheerful sentiment in oil trade circles.

Highs and Lows.
Establishment of new 1927 peak prices by Adams Express, Radio Corporation, United Drug, American Home Products, Midland Steel Products preferred, Calumet & Arizona, American Linsed and Victor Talking Machine was offset by new lows in Remington-Rand common and first preferred, American Mercantile, Gillette Safety Razor, White Sewing Machine and Foundation Co.

Rails presented numerous points of strength under the leadership of Southern Railway, which crossed 137 to the highest price in its history. Revival of activity and strength in Wash common was based, in part, on expectations of heavily increased traffic when the Ford plants get into full production with the new models. Texas & Pacific jumped 6 points in the late trading and Canadian Pacific, late trading and Canadian Pacific, and Norfolk & Southern showed net gains of 4 and 5 1/2 points, respectively.

Call Money Steady.
Call money held steady at 3 1/2 percent all day, although funds were reported to be obtainable in the "outside market" as low as 3 percent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Except for a further recession in sterling, which fell to around $4.87 1/2, there was little of interest in the irregular foreign exchange market. Spanish and Japanese exchanges were moderately higher but the other changes were nominal.

Mixed movements in the commodity markets reflected the usual switching of speculative accounts on the eve of Government reports.

NO MORE DIVIDENDS IN 1927
ON WESTERN PAC. RD. CORP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Directors of the Western Pacific Railroad have decided not to further dividends should be declared on the preferred stock during the present calendar year. Thomas M. Buchanan, president, said that the company's financial condition, including corporate taxes for the calendar year, fully estimated, would be expected during the balance of the year from the Western Pacific Railroad Co., an account of its extensive improvement program.

Work on Theater Delayed.
Construction of the new Fox Theater at Grand and Washington boulevards has been delayed two weeks by nonarrival of structural steel, but work will be resumed shortly. The concrete foundations are completed.

Artificial Teeth now easy to clean

The sticky slime on plates and bridges is hard to remove. Food sticks in it and ferments. It is unsightly, unclean. A liquid which dissolves this slime has been discovered at the Mellon Institute, University of Pittsburgh. It is called Mu-Sol-Dent. Nothing equals it. One bottle will convince you. "Skinny" Women Gain Weight

New YEAST and IRON builds up weight and strength
First treatment gives results
—or no money

If you are skinny as a rail, with flat chest, faint limbs, and you seem to lack all energy, you need the good pounds of "iron-pot" flesh and the vitalizing strength that only IRONIZED YEAST can give. Thousands of run-down, weak men and women have regained their normal weight and vigor with IRONIZED YEAST.

Yeast turns your food into flesh and strength. IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the active agent in making malt, which makes malt so beneficial. This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and tending to curves and muscles. Only when Yeast is combined in this way is it most effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building value of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

Ask your druggist for IRONIZED YEAST and start to get pounds of weight and new strength today. You will not only feel better, but you will look better, as IRONIZED YEAST cleans out the old, dead, inactive blood and brings new healthy color to your cheeks and sparkle to your eyes. Comes in pleasant-tasting tablets or a bottle. Safe for everybody. Does not upset the stomach nor cause gas or flatulency.

Results from first treatment —or your money back

Go now to the druggist and get a single course treatment. If you are not absolutely satisfied with the weight and health benefits gained, money for the bottle will be promptly refunded. It is convenient to buy at the druggist, and $2.00 to IRONIZED YEAST CO., Atlanta, Ga., Bank 120-12.

10 DROWNED WHEN LINER SINKS FERRY

Crowded Boat Rammed at Sydney, New South Wales—Dead Number 16.

By the Associated Press.
SYDNEY, New South Wales, Nov. 3.—A ferry boat, carrying 150 persons, many of them school children, was crushed today beneath the bow of the steamship Tahiti, outward-bound for San Francisco. There was a terrific explosion and timber was hurled in every direction, while the ferry boat settled and sank within three minutes.

Ten bodies had been recovered this afternoon. Fifty persons were treated for injuries while the number of those rescued could not be definitely determined since many small boats picked up survivors and carried them to scattered points along the harbor.

Belief that some of the passengers had been caught in the cabins of the ferryboat led to the fear that at least 16 lives were lost in the tragedy.

When the Tahiti struck the ferry boat, there was a grinding crash and most of the ferry passengers were thrown into the water, struggling and crying for help. The Tahiti put out small boats to pick up the survivors as did other boats in the vicinity and the work of rescue went on rapidly.

The Tahiti, after picking up all those it could find in the waters, continued on to San Francisco.

PAUPER IS HEIR TO $12,000 OF THE JAMES DUKE ESTATE

William N. Price, 78, Is Inmate of Clinton County Poor-house.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 3.—William N. Price, 78 years old, was in the county poor home at Plattsburg, Clinton County, today, the heir to $12,000 left by the late James Duke, tobacco king.

Word of the legacy was received yesterday, L. M. Woodward, County Clerk, said today, when papers were filed in Probate Court for appointment of a guardian for Price.

Price was a patient in the State hospital for the insane here from 1907 to 1923. Four years ago his condition was believed such that he might be committed to the poor farm of his native county and he has been there since then.

Clinton County officials said Price's only relative was believed to be a daughter, whose whereabouts is unknown.

Price is believed here to be distantly related to the Duke family through his mother.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Hailed as the "lovely, daring, darling of Columbia," Ruth Elder, accompanied by Capt. George W. Haldeman, pilot of the plane, American Girl, in which Miss Elder was a passenger, was guest of honor at a luncheon given by 300 men of the American colony at the American Club here today.

Miss Elder blushed and squirmed during her introducer's speech of laudation. Responding, she said: "As a speech-maker I am a total flop. My heart gets mixed up in my throat." Then, mumbling her thanks, she sat down amid a roar of cheers.

Sir Alfred related the discovery of the antiseptic by a chemist in the South Staffordshire Laboratories of the Mond Gas Co. after years of research. The discovery was a coal tar product of exceptional antiseptic properties, he said.

DIES AFTER DRINKING LIQUOR

The contents of a bottle taken by police from a fruit stand near Twentieth and Market streets yesterday, will be analyzed today, to determine whether liquor that James Sears, a Negro, drank was the cause of his death. Another Negro told police he and Sears drank moonshine whiskey bought at the fruit stand and that Sears became ill. Upon arrival at City Hospital No. 3, Sears was pronounced dead.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 3.—Martin Jensen, of Honolulu flight fame, and Mrs. Jensen, who aided him in financing his aerial adventure over the Pacific are separated, according to newspaper reports here. MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

IT TAKES THREE TO MAKE A HOME.
A woman may be able to "make" an attractive HOUSE out of a few sticks of mahogany and a few yards of cretonne.

But it takes TWO to create a HOME!

A house may have beauty, taste and elegance; but a home must have personality, warmth, livability and lovability.

The soul of a home has to be BREATHED into it. And somehow it takes not only the fragrance of a woman's presence and sachets and scented soaps, but the aroma of a good masculine cigar or a seasoned old pipe to impart to a house the spirit of a Home.

There must be inspiration behind the creation of a home—that inspiration which comes of the desire to create an abiding place for somebody you love. And it is not to be found in lagging feet and lukewarm kisses, in nagging tongues or delicatessen dinners.

"Craig's Wife" made a home, but she failed to give it LIFE, after she had given it form. Dripping flowers, cigarette ashes, soiled sofa cushions and misplaced magazines got on her nerves, and she turned her home into a boarding school.

Many a "perfect housekeeper" keeps the place going like a boiler factory all day, in order that it may be as neat and cold as a mausoleum all evening.

A woman may go mechanically through the motions of "making" a home, as she does through the motions of making a living, because it is her duty. But unless there is a real incentive beneath all her labor, it is not a success.

And that incentive is always a MAN—a certain man due at a certain hour! A man who is eager and glad to be there. A man who has not taken off his cheerfulness, courtesy and enthusiasm with his office coat, and who does not put on his grouchy with his smoking coat. A man to whom HOME is not just a junction point, but is "the end of the trail!"

You know what I mean. To so many men, Home is just what Chicago is to the transcontinental traveler—a place in which to CHANGE, grab what nourishment he can, and dash off somewhere else!

And to so many women, Home is just an anchor—to drag along as they go; a chain and ball which weighs them down and interferes with everything they want to do.

The SPIRIT of a Home can preside over a breakfast nook and light it up like a lamp; and its absence can make a seven-course dinner as dull and drab as a quick lunch.

Oh, yes; it takes something intangible and invisible to make a Home!

Did I say it takes TWO to make a home? That's wrong! It takes THREE—a man and a woman—and LOVE!

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

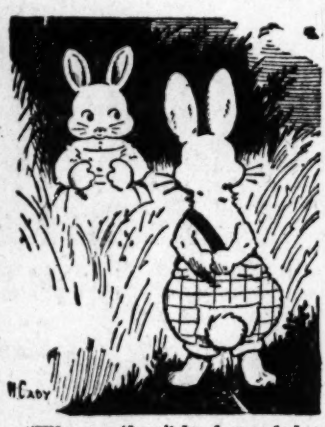

Mrs. Peter Has a Pleasant Surprise

Mistakes are made by one and all;
Rejoice when ill does not befall.
—Mrs. Peter Rabbit.

LITTLE BEARS are very little boys at times; their attention is easily distracted. You will remember that the two cubs up in the Old Pasture were quarreling over the matter which should try to dig out little Mrs. Peter. They quarreled and, I am sorry to say, began to fight over it. Their tempers are short and they get into a good many quarrels during the day. But quarrels do not last long. Now they cuffed each other and tried to bite and scratch, but really did no harm at all. When they got tired they stopped. They had tumbled and rolled their way from the hole in which little Mrs. Peter had disappeared. When they stopped to rest they forgot what they had been fighting about. Something else drew their attention and they wandered off. Little Mrs. Peter, who was frantically trying to dig a back door, stopped digging when she discovered that those little bears were no longer trying to get her. As soon as she dared, she left the hole and scamped away as fast as her legs would take her. Never was there a more frightened rabbit than timid little Mrs. Peter. She ran until she came to a fine big bramble-tangle, just the kind of place she decided that was the place for her. If there were no little entrance already cut, she could out one with those sharp teeth of hers. But there was an entrance. There was a nice little path of just the right size, leading right into the heart of that bramble-tangle. Only a rabbit could cut such a little path as that. That meant that somebody else used, or at least had used, this bramble-tangle.

But little Mrs. Peter didn't care. She darted in and then she drew a long breath and slowly made her way toward the heart of the bramble-tangle. A sudden loud thump made her jump. It was a rabbit thump. There was no mistaking it. She looked in the direction from which it had come and fully expected to see her father. Old Jed Thumper, the gray old rabbit who had lived so long in the Old Pasture. Instead, she saw another rabbit. She couldn't see him clearly because there were some brambles between. But in that first glimpse she thought it was Peter.

"Oh, Peter!" she cried, "I was looking for you."

"Who are they," he demanded.

"I guess not," replied the other rabbit. Then little Mrs. Peter saw that it wasn't Peter. It was another rabbit who looked like Peter, looked very much like Peter, but was stranger.

"Oh," said little Mrs. Peter, "I made a mistake. Do you live here in the Old Pasture? Is this your bramble-tangle?"

The stranger hopped toward her so that she got a better look at him. He was a handsome young rabbit. Without answering little Mrs. Peter's questions, he asked a question himself.

"Who are you?" he demanded.

"I am Mrs. Peter Rabbit and my home is in the dear Old Pasture," replied Mrs. Peter proudly.

The stranger stared at her very hard.

"When I was little," said he, "I lived in a dear Old Pasture and they called me Little Pete."

Then Mrs. Peter knew that this was one of her own children. Only a rabbit could cut such a little path as that. That meant that somebody else used, or at least had used, this bramble-tangle.

But little Mrs. Peter didn't care. She darted in and then she drew a long breath and slowly made her way toward the heart of the bramble-tangle. A sudden loud thump made her jump. CHIC CHERIE

This Is Why She Lost Sleep!

Cherie, our poor darling, has been losing sleep over the visits of this strange and mysterious looking male, thinking that Cousin Emily was about to die at one of some sudden illness. And if you ever saw a healthier looking woman, at least you never saw a smarter satin negligee—drooping sleeves and all!

She doesn't feel a day over twenty and she doesn't look much more than that in this step-in-suit, thinking that Cousin Emily was about to die at one of some sudden illness. And if you ever saw a healthier looking woman, at least you never saw a smarter satin negligee—drooping sleeves and all!

It's a frock, too, that deserves such consideration. The skirt is of chiffon velvet, the blouse is a pale yellow metal cloth with a brocade flower of the same color. Cousin Emily is about to go to a tea dance with Karyl—yes, of course, she calls him Karyl now—and she hopes to leave before Cherie catches her.

This is the jacket to the suit—made with no collar to mention, no trimming and a sash that ties in front. The suit is golden brown and so is the fur piece. We hope you notice the pins in Cousin Emily's hat—one on top of the brim and one slipped underneath on the opposite side. A new reason for wide-brimmed hats.

Matrimony Ads Fill Roman Newspapers

UNDETERRED by the present high cost of living in Italy, bachelors, bachelor maids, widowers and widows continue to flood the matrimonial want-ad columns in the Roman and provincial newspapers.

"Distinguished and likeable" young man of 29, for example, now in the Army aviation service, could "willingly sacrifice" for a widow, affectionate, pleasant and possessed of a dowry. The aspiring aviator adds that even if he were from the province instead of the capital, it would make no difference in his ardor.

A miss of 30, who describes herself as "cultured, distinguished, sympathetic, and possessed of a dowry" is looking for a gentleman between 35 and 45. He must, according to her requirements, be equally "distinguished," but may be either a professional man or business man for all she cares, providing he is "possessed" of sufficient money. The young lady launches her ad "with the utmost seriousness."

Nothing but "a diplomat of independent means" will satisfy the proprietress of a drugstore in a certain health resort. He must be between 35 and 40, and it is "indispensable" that the lady have his photograph before going further into correspondence.

The ads cost 2 lire a word, with a minimum of 20 lire, or about $1.12.

Don't miff this one: Butter and Finger are only four runs apart, and by stepping down the ladder a word at a time, they can be coupled. Remember, only one letter may be changed in each move and the order of the remaining letters must stay undisturbed. A good solution can be reached without resorting to unfamiliar words or dialect. Watch for our answer tomorrow. Here's one way to do it: Fullback; 1. Pull; 2. Fall; 3. Ball; 4. Balk; 5. Back.

Flowers Can Be Fooled

BY tinkering with the sunlight each day, taking potted plants into the cellar for an hour or two at the end of the day. This produces sunlight conditions approximating autumn, with a shorter duration of daylight, and the plants bloom earlier. In the same way, it has been found that lengthening the short days of autumn and winter with electric light of proper intensity prevents these plants from flowering at their normal season. On the other hand, some plants, such as beets, spinach and radish, require long days for flowering, and hence may be forced by the use of the electric light to lengthen the day.

The day has to be shortened either in the morning or in the evening.

So Easy to Lose Fat

A great number of slender women are telling this story to others. They have done so for two decades. Now you see the results in every circle. Note how slenderness prevails. Excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

The story is this: "I took Marmola prescription tablets—four a day. No abnormal exercise or diet was required. New beauty came, new health and vitality. I ceased when my weight came down to normal. Now I take Marmola only when I start to gain again."

Marmola contains scientific discovery, based on wide research and thousands of experiments. Men thus found a substance which the body turns food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat.

Marmola supplies that substance, plus other helps. The complete prescription is in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you may know just why the good comes, and have no fear of harm.

Marmola has for 20 years provided priceless benefits to people over-fat. Those people have told the millions to others, and the use has spread. Millions of boxes have been used to contribute to the slender figures of today.

Go try it for a little time and watch how the fat disappears. Then tell others about it. It is kindness to your friends. It means a great deal to many. Go order before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

The Pleasant Way to Reduce

Good Form

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

LONG SLEEVES AND VEIL.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Would it be according to good form for a bride who will be married in church at 3 o'clock to wear a veil with a dress and long sleeves, that is a white dress? Or would she have to wear the regular white sleeveless evening dress?

A. The best form of the formal costume for the bride at a 3 o'clock wedding is a white dress with long sleeves and the bridal veil. The sleeves may be made so that they are detachable.

A PARISH HOUSE BRIDE.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I expect to be married soon. Is it proper to wear a white dress and hat when I am going to be married at the parish house?

2. Also, should I carry a bouquet or just wear a corsage?

E. Since you are to be married so informally, in the parish house, I suggest that you do not wear white, but instead wear a dark ensemble of silk or heavier material. Why not wear the suit that you are to travel in? That would be in very good form. For such an informal wedding, a white dress and hat would be rather conspicuous.

2. With your informal costume, wear a corsage.

"PRESENCE" OR "COMPANY."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to know when sending out the wedding invitations of a girl whose mother is a widow if it would be proper to say "Mrs. Frances Smith requests," etc. or "Mrs. Bernard Smith requests?"

2. Do you say "requests the honor of your presence," or, "of your company?"

E. It is correct to send the invitations in the name of Mrs. Bernard Smith. Please don't consider using the form Mrs. Frances Smith—this form is thoroughly incorrect for a widow to use.

There is a distinct differentiation between these forms. "Requests the honor of your presence" is correct for the invitation to the ceremony. "Requests the pleasure of your company" is correct for use on the invitation to the reception.

It is an interesting distinction, too, or, if you figure it out, it is merely your "presence" that attends a wedding, since there is no chatting between the hosts and the guests. But at the reception, when everyone chats with everyone else, it is the "pleasure of your company" that is asked.

Take two large cans of salmon of the best brand, drain, free from skin and bones and flake it. Make a rich cream sauce, using egg yolk for thickening, and add three hard-boiled eggs put through the ricer. Season the sauce well and add the fish, allowing it to heat through but not to cook. Have ready a

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Milton C. Work.

I AM breaking into the "Misplaced Hands" series in order to respond to numerous requests for some information about signaling and discarding.

The Signal used in Auction Bridge today is merely a variation of the old Whist signal invented by Lord Henry Bentinck and first used by him at Graham's Coffee House, James street, London, in 1824. The Whist signal told the partner that the signaler wished to be led. His Lordship trumped to be led. His Lordship called it the "Blue Peter" which is the name of a nautical pennant meaning "We are ready to sail."

In Whist, a game in which every hand was played with a suit the hand was turned of the last card, the trump, the location of the trump suit to that hand, and, as the location of the trumps was not indicated, the player could not tell whether his partner desired to lead. The partner, therefore, was led to lead. Lord Bentinck's "Blue Peter" was made by the play of an unnecessary high card (e. g., a Trey of the first round of a suit and a Deuce of the second), and it was a command to the partner to lead trumps at the first opportunity.

When Whist was superseded by Bridge, and subsequently Bridge by Auction Bridge—the first game in which the trump (or No Trump) was selected by the dealer or his partner, and the second game in which the trump (or No Trump) was determined by the four players bidding for the choice—the location of the long trump was known and a signal to lead trumps became unnecessary. The question at once arose as to how the Whist signal could be utilized. It was soon found that the most advantageous method of signaling, of course, was to use the signal. The declarer's adversary would be given to the play of an unnecessarily high card the meaning: "Please continue this suit."

While the signal originally was used in Bridge merely to indicate the ability and desire to ruff the third round of the suit in which the signal was made, the folly of limiting it to any such narrow meaning soon became evident. A player who cannot trump the third round of a suit frequently desires it to be led three times. He may have the Queen and be able to win the third round; he may want to lead third to force the declarer's strength, or may know that it will establish a thirteenth for the side of the signaler, or that a continuation of the suit is wiser than opening a new suit. The signal as he used means: "Continue this suit, I have a reason for asking you to do so."

The signal can be given on either the partner's or the declarer's lead, but it is mainly used when the partner is leading, as it is the apt to be of immediate value. It is asking for a continuation. Failure to signal is not necessarily a command to shift the suit, but it at least suggests that a shift may be advisable; and if the leader continues the suit, he does it on his own responsibility.

The first trick frequently will show the leader that his partner is not signaling, and suggests that it is advisable to change the suit. The Deuce or any card which the leader can read as being the lowest his partner holds tells him the other the card is a singleton or that the partner is not beginning a signal. Even a comparative high card on the first round sometimes may be marked as the lowest; for example, a Five played by partner, with Four and Deuce Dimmy and Trey in the hand of the leader.

Just as the first card may show that a player is not starting a suit, so it may convey—with a great measure of certainty—the opposite information. A player anxious to have the suit continued and having more than two small cards available for starting a signal should play the highest he can spare, for emphasis. With an A led, a Third Hand wishing to signal and holding King 4-4-2 should play the 4, not the 2 or the 3.

Holding Jack-x or Ten-x, King being led by partner, some players decline to signal even when anxious to take advantage of the opportunity to ruff which is apt to arise. There is a popular saying: "Do not signal with an honor which," with King-x or Queen-x, sound enough, those high cards of such obvious value that signal may readily cost a trick; with Jack or Ten and one small card, do not hesitate to play. Jack or the Ten (supposing the are sitting opposite to a partner who understands signals) if a desire the suit continued for the rounds. Should you play the low card, your partner might read it to be your lowest and shift the suit after the first trick, or might read the play of the Jack or Ten on the second trick (if the play of a lower on the first suit led to a third time) as a suit led at a third time.

Next Sunday we will consider discarding and the use of the signal in discarding.

Lord Bentinck's "Blue Peter" was made by the play of an unnecessary high card (e. g., a Trey on the first round of a suit) and a Deuce on the second, and it was a command to the partner to lead trumps at the first opportunity.

This trump signal soon became a recognized and interesting part of the game of Whist, and from the time of its inception it was used by all Whist experts.

Just as the first card may show that a player is not starting a signal, so it may convey—with a great measure of certainty—the opposite information. A player anxious to have the suit continued and having more than two small cards available for starting a signal, should play the highest he can spare, for emphasis. GLAD TO GO BACK TO DARKEST AFRICA

Miss Rose M. Maier, St. Louis Missionary, Finds Greater Satisfaction Than Here, Because Life Is on the Up Grade There.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

AFTER three years in an African mission and one year at home, Miss Rose M. Maier of 1921 South Spring avenue declares she is glad to return to the Dark Continent. One reason she gives is that though progress there is slow, it is on the upgrade, while many indications lead her to believe civilization is declining here.

She is bobbed-haired and to all appearances a modern type of young woman, though of serious mien. "Of course, I have always told my natives that all Christians do not practice their religion in their daily life, but I should hate to have them know the whole truth about it," said the missionary in an interview. "Until I had been for three years among people who had been led to look up to and reverence Christianity and make great sacrifices to embrace it, I did not realize the lack of appreciation of all its benefits here at home."

Miss Maier is one of seven white persons conducting the Presbyterian mission in French Cameroun, in the west of Africa, and residing in the compound in which schools, a church and hospital are maintained.

She joined the mission just following her graduation as a nurse at city hospital and will return to Africa this week after a year's leave of absence. Part of her furlough has been spent with Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl at his laboratories on Lucas avenue, studying germs of diseases with which she comes in contact in her field, and means of combating them.

The surest approach to the African heart and mind and eventually the soul is through medical aid, said Miss Maier. The colony is six degrees north of the Equator, the high temperatures made bearable by the altitude and deep forests, which absorb the heat. The nights are so cool it is necessary to sleep under blankets, she said. There is much malaria, however, and sleeping sickness, leprosy, yaws and social diseases, also pneumonia and tuberculosis.

A LEPRO colony is isolated, though Miss Maier says this isolation is necessary only as a means of stamping out the hereditary taint of the disease. "If leprosy were as contagious as we have been led to believe, all the natives in our colony would have it, for the ground trod by the lepers."

The danger may be offset somewhat by the extreme cleanliness of the natives, she thought. "In a French book on physiology from which we are required to teach, we had to tear out the page where it is recommended that a whole bath be taken once a week and the feet washed every day. Our natives plunge into the river many times a day, and we did not want to discourage this practice."

Especially do the natives appreciate what has been done toward lowering the rate of infant mortality among them. The worst affliction that can befall a woman, according to the native code, is to be childless, and it used to be that a large percentage of the children died in infancy. Where formerly they were given cold baths from birth and fed bananas, peanuts, corn, meat, anything the parents thought good for themselves, now proper feeding and care are taught. Children grow and flourish accordingly and the mothers are much impressed.

The native men at the same time are impressed by the household conveniences and methods of agriculture, imported by the missionaries. They see chairs and tables, beds and carpets, permanent dwellings erected and many hitherto unknown varieties of food grown in the gardens and prepared in the kitchens. They see the clothes the white people wear and especially are they impressed by these. They are inspired to possess similar comforts and commodities, and only this incentive is needed to make them industrious, productive and eager to co-operate with the missionaries.

ALTHOUGH the climate is enervating, Miss Maier describes the Bantu people among whom she works as being a race superior to many African tribes, rather light in color, of fine features and good physique, where they survive the rigors of their childhood and avoid the numerous diseases to which they are exposed. They are far from stupid, she said, are quick to learn and in the 50 years the mission has been established have made remarkable progress.

At a single church service it is not uncommon for 4000 natives to come in to listen to the sermons. Many have become Christians and of such zeal that they go forth as missionaries themselves, even invading the domains of the savage Bakal tribes to the north, bringing back converts.

LAUGHING AROUND THE WORLD

with IRVIN S. COBB

A Voice From the Menagerie. I THOUGHT all the variations had been played on stories of incipient delirium tremens, but I find I was wrong. Today's offerings came to me from a citizen of St. Louis.

According to his statement, two traveling men sought to while away the tedium of a rainy Sunday afternoon in a small Missouri city. They established liaison with a resident bootlegger who for a price supplied them with a quart apiece of "white mule," as I believe the potent of the Ozark moonshiner is called. Being ignorant of the strength of this distillation or perhaps being deceived by its lack of color, the visitors over-indulged.

In the bedchamber of the local hotel which they shared, they sat and drank, drink for drink, until their respective flasks were nearly empty. Late that evening one of the pair in a high state of agitation dashed to the wall telephone and got connection with the police station. The night chief answered his excited call.

"Ossifer," begged the man at the other end of the wire, "come over here as quick as you can and bring a whole lot of ossifer ossifer with you. This is 'life-and-death mazzar, so come a'runnin'!"

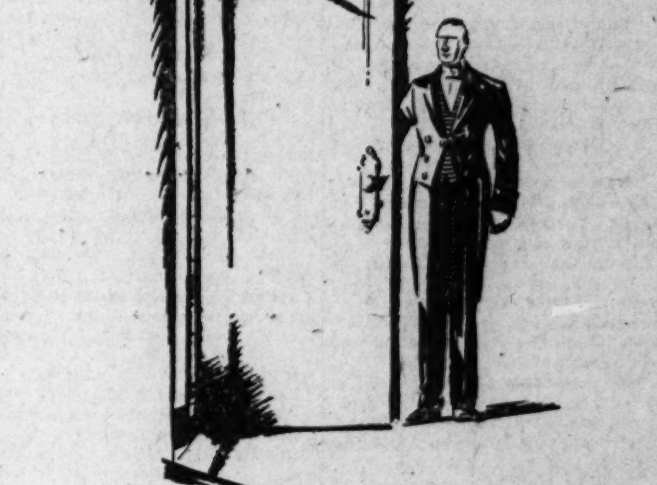

"What's the trouble?" "Trouble? You'd call it trouble! Why, my partner has gone plumb crazy. He's 'ossiferin' around the floor yellin' 'I don't see no spotted leopards anywhere!'"

"Well, that's no sign he's crazy, is it?—sayin' he can't see no leopards in a hotel?" "Not see no leopards—hell! Why, ossifer, the room's full of 'em!"

WHEN good friends call to grace your home—to sit and talk as good friends will—to dine—to dance—to play a little bridge perhaps... there's no drink in all the world so altogether welcome as a sparkling, bubbling glass of "Canada Dry."

The very appearance of the stately green bottle, with its aristocratic crest and foil, adds a touch of distinction to every occasion. The delicate appealing flavor of the ginger ale itself will charm your taste and tell you something, too, of the matchless purity and quality of this famous drink.

"Canada Dry" is altogether different from every other ginger ale because it is made and mellowed with something of the same expert care as a fine old wine. It is, indeed, The Champagne of Ginger Ales.

SUGGESTS GRAND JURY INVESTIGATE ALLEGED BRIBERY BY 2 ATTORNEYS

Judge Wants Action on Convict's Charge They Paid Him to Alter Story to Aid Robbers.

100 DOWN, $2500 TO COME, WITNESS SAYS

Joseph McGlynn of East St. Louis and J. F. McGinnis Jr. of Alton Silent Under Accusation.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Two attorneys, Joseph B. McGlynn of East St. Louis and John F. McGinnis Jr. of Alton, were severely criticized yesterday afternoon by the Circuit Court of Appeals for seeking a new trial for seven Alton postoffice robbers on the strength of an affidavit procured from a convict who admitted his testimony as a Government witness.

They had obtained the affidavit from the convict for use in support of a motion for a new trial, which was being argued when the prosecutor, District Attorney Francis J. Springfield, interrupted the proceedings to file a second affidavit, made by the same convict to postoffice inspectors, in which the convict charged that McGlynn had offered him money and released him from the penitentiary for repudiating his testimony as the Government's star witness.

Grand Jury Inquiry Suggested. The action of McGlynn and McGinnis in thus seeking to sidetrack the trial court, as Judge Anderson described it, was highly unethical, and Judge Page suggested a grand jury investigation of the whole affair. McGlynn and McGinnis sat silently through the proceedings and offered no reply in extenuation of their action.

The case was that of the Government against seven defendants who were convicted in January, 1937, and sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary for theft of $28,000 in stamps and money from the Alton postoffice. The Government's star witness was George Sturn, also known as Merrell, an accomplice, son of a Chicago physician. He was not indicted, but subsequently was convicted in the State court for stealing an automobile, and sentenced from one to 10 years at Joliet. It was there last Aug. 5 that he was visited by attorneys McGlynn and McGinnis, who with other attorneys, had represented the robbers at their trial. Sturn made an affidavit for them in which he charged Postoffice Inspectors Rono Keefe and Herbert Haurer of Springfield, and Detective Joseph Schrader of East St. Louis with having prepared a statement for him before the trial of the case to guide him in testifying.

Says He Was Promised $2500. When this became known to the postoffice inspectors, they visited Sturn at Joliet on Oct. 8, and he thereupon executed another affidavit recanting the statement he gave to McGlynn and McGinnis, and charged McGlynn with having promised him $2500 if a new trial was obtained on his affidavit for the robbers. It was charged in the affidavit to the postoffice inspectors that McGlynn further promised him $2600, and left a $100 bill for him, which he found in the men's room at the prison.

After the three members of the Court of Appeals, Judges Evans, Page and Anderson, heard oral arguments on the appeal, they read the two affidavits made by Sturn, and before adjourning court a few minutes later, denounced the action of the attorneys as unethical.

The matters contained in these affidavits are more properly matters for a grand jury than for this court, said Judge Page. Judge Anderson asked, "Is McGlynn a lawyer?" Another attorney, Arthur M. Fitzgerald of Springfield, who represented one of the defendants and who was discussing at the time some legal points of the proceedings, replied that McGlynn was present.

Judge Assails Lawyers. "It is my opinion," said Judge Anderson, "that any lawyer who would go into a penitentiary unaccompanied by the prosecuting official and seek to obtain such an affidavit as was obtained in this case is a disgrace to the profession."
